San Rafael will open its fourth down town municipal parking lot at 8 a.m. Monday—just in time for the Christmas shopping rush, Public Works Director Norris Rawles announced today. The new lot, at Third and Cijos streets, has metered stalls for 60 cars. George Bartram of the public works department is seen putting in last of meters yesterday. Federal Trade Commission Charges Payola Fooled Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public has been fooled and competition has been suppressed by nine companies that slipped payola to disc jockeys, the Federal Trade Commission charges.

In return for payola, the FTC said yesterday, the radio and TV disc jockeys gave the firms' recordings a good spin —sometimes playing the same records as often as six to ten times a day.

Because these payments were concealed, the FTC said, the public was deceived into thinking that the records involved actually were among the most popular ones.

A spokesman for the Edward S. Barsky Co., a Philadelphia record distributing firm, one of the nine named by the FTC made this comment to a newsman:

"Sure we paid disc jockeys. We met competition. Every company was involved in one way or another. We merely fought the battle to sell records, and that was to pay some of the bigger disc jockeys."

Another of the companies named was the huge Radio Corp. of America.

The FTC did not name any disc jockeys as the receivers of payola.

The television industry yesterday amended its code of conduct to ban all rigged quiz shows, payola and deceptive advertising. The television board of the National Assn. of Broadcasters said it was doing so to clean its own house.

The FTC complaints named three manufacturers and six record distributors.

Besides RCA, the two manufacturers named were London Records, Inc., New York, and Bernard Lowe Enterprises, Inc., Philadelphia.

RCA and London acknowledged receipt of the complaints, but referred them to lawyers and had no comment.

All but one of the record distributors were Philadelphia firms. In addition to Barsky, they were Chips Distributing Co., Inc., David Rosen, Inc., Universal Records Distributing Corp., and Sparks Music Distributors, Inc. The ninth firm was Main Line Cleveland Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.

Two disc jockeys for radio station KYW in Cleveland were fired yesterday. They are Joe Finan and Wes Hopkins. Finan said he and Hopkins got $50 a week from Main Line Cleveland, which distributes RCA Victor recordings.

But Finan said there were consultant fees, not payola.

State Board Approves Air Pollution Control Standards

BERKELEY (UPI)—Smog control standards designed for reducing air pollution were unanimously adopted at an emergency meeting of the state Board of Health yesterday.

The new standards are to be submitted to the legislature for determination as to how and when they may be enforced. They set the permissible air pollution level at .15 parts of oxidants per million parts of air.

"This is a pioneering effort by the State of California," said Dr. Malcolm Merrill, state director of health. "No air pollution standards have been set anywhere else in the world," he added. "The rest of the world has its eyes on us in this matter."

A major result of the new standards could be that all motor vehicles in the state might be required to have anti-smog devices, said Dr. Lester Breslow, head of the health department Bureau of Diseases.

Breslow said at present there are no exhaust filters capable of fulfilling the board's specifications.

M. P. Venema, president of the Universal Oil Products Co., Des Plains, Ill., said his firm could produce such a filter. Venema was one of the many industrial leaders attending the meeting.

Space Monkey Comes Ashore Alive, Chipper

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Sam, the space monkey, came ashore today, alive, chipper and a honorary member of the destroyer's crew which plucked him from the Atlantic Ocean after a 55-mile high rocket ride.

Sam and the Project Mercury capsule in which he took his dizzy spin arrived at this port city aboard the destroyer Borie. The capsule is the kind future space men will ride in their first attempts to orbit the earth.

HEAVY SEAS

The destroyer had fished Sam and the capsule from 12-foot high waves about 120 miles off the North Carolina coast three hours after they were zoomed aloft by a Little Joe rocket from Wallops Island, Va., yesterday.

The monkey was met by aj. Cloid Green, an Air Force physician from the Aviation School of Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex. Immediately he was carried, still encased in a small cylindical chamber and covered with a blanket, to Langley Air Force Base, Va. From the Langley laboratories of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency he's due to be flown to Brooks.

VERY LIVELY

After Sam and his capsule were removed from the Borie, ship's officers and men and NASA officials said he was lively and very hungry when released from the capsule.

Sam was taken to the ship's sick bay where he ate part of an apple and part of an orange, scratched his head several times and seemed pleased to see humans about him.

The ship's crew filed past the sick bay, looked at Sam, and he looked back. Sam was made an honorary destroyerman and was given a card to prove it.

GOOD JOB

The Borie's skipper, Cmdr. Joseph Sahaj, credited a 10-man recovery team on the Borie with "doing a marvelous job under hazardous conditions."

Sam's departure from Langley depends upon the arrival of certain equipment and personnel being flown here from Wallops Island to accompany him on the flight from Brooks.

Principal purpose of the project, as far as NASA was concerned, was to test at high altitude the escape system of the capsule. NASA, a spokesman said, merely permitted Sam to go along for the ride at the request of the School of Aviation Medicine.

His space capsule, the kind future space men will ride in their first attempts to orbit the earth, roared to a height of 19 miles.

There an escape rocket ignited, blasted loose from the main booster rocket and carried the capsule on up to a height of 55 miles. Testing this escape mechanism, a key safety device for future astronauts, was the main purpose of Sam's journey.

Supporters Of Mantegani Form Group

Formation of a "Supporters of Mantegani" committee in the Tiburon Fire Protection District was announced today by Mrs. William B. Newman.

Members are residents and taxpayers of the district who oppose the attempt to recall Fire Commissioner Fred Mantegani at a special election Tuesday.

"We are unalterably opposed to the recall of Mantegani," Mrs. Newman said. "We feel strongly that this is not a proper use of the recall. He was appointed according to due process by the board of supervisors, the sole appointing agency."

"Great interest in the election was generated as a result of the 'town hall' meeting where 160 heard the facts," Mrs. Newman said. "Many persons who had waited to hear all sides now feel obliged to speak out in opposition to the recall."

Ike, Italy Leaders Agree On Bolstering Defenses

HERE'S A SWITCH: ITALIAN REDS WANT BIGGER WELCOME FOR IKE

ROME (AP) — Italy's Communist party today complained that the City of Rome had not given President Eisenhower a big enough welcome.

The Reds used the Eisenhower visit as a political club against an old opponent, Mayor Urbano Cioccetti of Rome.

Italian Communists switched from attacking Eisenhower as a warmonger to hailing him as a man of peace after his meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Normally the mayor of Rome does not welcome visitors at the airport or railway station. He usually greets them as their motorcade passes the Colosseum. The mayor also usually arranges a reception for visitors at the great city hall, designed by Michelangelo.

Cioccetti did neither. He went to the airport to greet Eisenhower. No other program was arranged. Italian officials said this was because Eisenhower's visit was not a ceremonial state affair.

Two Day Discussions End On Harmony Note

ROME (AP)—President Eisenhower tonight ended a two-day round of talks with Italian leaders with reported agreement that the West must bolster its defensive might despite Moscow's current campaign of soft talk.

A final two-hour review of East-West issues wound up the official phase of Eisenhower's good will visit to Rome.

Afterward, the smiling American president left to attend a farewell dinner at the Villa Taverna, residence of the U.S. ambassador. Eisenhower is host at the dinner for Italian leaders.

Eisenhower, Italian President Giovanni Gronchi and Prime Minister Antonio Segni were to issue a joint communique tonight outlining results of their three separate conferences.

In advance of this, the president assured the Italian leaders the United States never would sacrifice Western unity for the sake of a quick and easy deal with the Soviet Union.

The President made the pledge to Premier Antonio Segni on the second day of his visit to Rome, first stop on his 11-nation mission of peace.

Earlier, the President told U.S. embassy employes with a voice shaking with emotion that he had undertaken this unprecedented mission of peace to try to interpret America to other peoples.

"Since I have four grandchildren myself," he added, "I am much concerned that they should have a better life than I had."

Informed sources said the President in his talks with Segni asserted the United States favored pressing ahead with regional defense alliances such as the Atlantic Pact until there are safeguarded agreements with the Russians.

Eisenhower was said to be rather hopeful of some sort of agreement easing the tensions over Berlin.

The United States will continue to send huge quantities of weapons to its European allies, Eisenhower was said to have assured Segni.

The President emphasized his goal was a disarmament agreement with the Soviet Union, but he conceded it might take time.

In a jovial mood despite Rome's continuing rain, Eisenhower met with Segni to review decisions expected at the Western summit talks Dec. 19.

The conference with Segni, Eisenhower's second since arriving in Rome yesterday, lasted nearly two hours at the Premier's office and ended just before lunch time.

The President went to the embassy directly from laying a wreath at the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier.

The persistent downpour which attended his arrival yesterday continued but it appeared to have no effect on the President's high spirit.

Cuba Rejects Charge Made By Guatemala

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba today "emphatically rejected" a Guatemalan charge that its officials had tolerated and supported plans for a Communist-backed revolution in Guatemala.

Cuban Ambassador Levi Marero told the Organization of American States the Guatemalan charge was a "lamentable fiction" and "totally unjustified."

Guatemalan representative Guillermo Saenz de Tejada earlier read to the OAS council a formal note in which his government charged that Cuban revolutionary leader Ernesto Guevara authorized help to the would-be Guatemalan revolutionaries.

Marrero said the explanation for the charge, coming at this time, is that elections are scheduled in Guatemala tomorrow, and the government candidates have little chance of success.

Thieves Take Advantage Of Fire In Store

An unattended outdoor incinerator was blamed today for fire yesterday afternoon in the storeroom of the MAC discount house at 555 Francisco boulevard, San Rafael, causing damage totaling $7,500.

Thieves took advantage of the confusion to get away with $609.85 from two cash registers and a .22 caliber revolver from the sporting goods department.

The blaze spread rapidly about 4 p.m. but was under control minutes later due to work of two San Rafael fire engines. Vance Trivett, assistant chief, said the incinerator caused a trail of fire by paper to a wooden frame outside the storeroom inside which cardboard boxes ignited.

Trivett estimated $1,500 damage to the building, $2,000 to a refrigerator system and the rest to merchandise.

Smoke spread through the building but water and fire damage was confined to the storeroom. Firemen worked with smoke ejectors till 6:30 p.m.

Someone pushed "no sale" buttons on two cash registers in the grocery department as they were left unattended, removing $609.85 in bills.

After discovery that a revolver had been taken two employees reported that they had heard a youth tell two companions about a gun believed to be the stolen weapon.

Clifford Gets Along Well In Juvenile Hall

Inmates of Marin County's Juvenile Hall have shown no animosity toward 15-year-old Clifford Fortner, the confessed slayer of Lorna Lax of Kentfield, Chief Probation Officer Walter H. Busher reported today.

"He has been accepted into the group very well," the officer said.

Clifford has been at the hall since Wednesday when he admitted killing the 12-year-old girl by bludgeoning, stabbing and strangling her.

He reportedly slept well last night, awoke at 7 today and took part in the usual cleaning-up activities.

He has been eating well and has been cheerful. Today, because there was no school, he took part in the usual work and recreational projects at the hall.

Clifford will remain at the hall for about three weeks while a juvenile report is prepared on his case.

Brazil Revolt Fizzles Out; Rebels Flee

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —A vest pocket revolt against President Juscelino Kubitschek fizzled out today as two remaining rebel planes fled to Paraguay.

The air force said two of the C47s seized Thursday landed at Asuncion. Rebel passengers included Army Col. Luis Mendes da Silva, identified as the highest ranking officer in the rebellion; Air Force Lt. Col. Haroldo Veloso; Air Force Capt. Gerseh Nerval and a civilian, Roberto Rocha.

Velloso and da Silva told Paraguayan authorities they were fleeing Brazil because the rebellion lacked arms and ammunition to carry on, the air force reported.

Earlier, a four-engine passenger plane which had been commandeered in flight was flown by two rebels to Buenos Aires, Argentina, where the rebels won asylum.

About 25 rebel air force and army officers have been scattered since seizing five planes early Thursday. Aside from the two who fled to Argentina, several others were captured and the rest headed for the Amazon jungles of northwest Brazil.

San Rafael Cadet To Be Honored

Cadet Sgt. William Walker of San Rafael, an eighth grade pupil at San Rafael Military Academy, will be honored by El Marinero Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the academy.

He will receive the D.A.R. medal as the Lower School cadet best meeting the qualifications of good citizenship, loyalty, promptness, courtesy and consideration for others.

Mrs. John Hellmann, regent of the D.A.R. chapter, will present the award at a parade on the Academy Circle.

Walker is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Walker of 35 Loma Linda road.

Surgeon Reports New Drug Curbs Cancer Recurrence

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A Philadelphia surgeon today reported on a new drug, Clorpactin XCB, which he found to be effective in preventing recurrence of cancer.

Dr. Harry E. Bacon, head of the department of rectal surgery at Temple University, said he made a comparative study on the effectiveness of Clorpactin XCB on substantial numbers of cancer patients.

He reported that during a 20-month period, 106 patients with proved cancer of the rectum or colon underwent operations during which Clorpactin XCB was used to wash out the wound. His researchers found that only two of the patients developed a recurrence of cancer.

In a control group of 106 patients with proved cancer who underwent surgery without the drug, nine developed recurrent cancer and eight died.

The drug is used as a solution to wash out the area being operated on to destroy any cancer cells that might become implanted and cause recurrence. These individual cancer cells, the surgeon said, often "reseed" themselves in the place where the parent cancer was removed, or get into the blood stream and subsequently in some other part of the body.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Two Share Honors At Luncheon Party

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Two young women who recently returned to the Bay Area after a long absence were honored by Mrs. John Merryman of San Rafael at a luncheon on Thursday at the Alta Mira. Honor guests were Mrs. James Waste and Mrs. Alden Yates. Mr. and Mrs. Yates have bought a home in San Carlos. Mrs. Waste, daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. William Waste of Del Mesa, her husband and their four children came from St. John, New Brunswick and are living in the Dominican Convent area of San Rafael.

Decorations on the luncheon table were a pink flocked Christmas tree with deeper pink ornaments, silver glittered star holders with lighted candles, which marked the covers, and silver candelabra with white tapers. Attending were 43 guests, a number of these from San Francisco, the Peninsula and the East Bay. One of the talented guests, Mrs. W. Kenneth Davis, played the piano following luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Davis are new residents of Fairhills in San Rafael, having bought the Paul I. Nedermans' home.

Other Marin County guests were Mesdames William Waste, Harry F. Waste, Richard Grambow, Ray L. Hamilton, J. V. Chambers, John Gentles, Russel Quick, Ralph Kielholtz, Harry M. Koons, John F. O'Connell and Edward J. Mahoney Jr.

THE SINGING STAR, Beatrice Kay of Hollywood, who has been appearing in a Peninsula night club, was the guest of the Benjamin Drapers of Mill Valley on Saturday and they gave a dinner in her honor that night. During the afternoon many of the people who had appeared on the TV program, "The Story of Virginia City," two years ago, called to renew their acquaintance with the singing star. Decor at the Drapers' party included Victorian silver and china, reminiscent of the period. After dinner the guests watched a replay of the Virginia City film and later the TV program, "The Alaskans," in which Miss Kay played the lead.

'I WANT A PARTY,' said Charlie McPherson when his wife, Mary, asked him what he would like for his 40th birthday. So that is why their friends have been invited to a dinner party tomorrow night at their home in San Rafael's Golf Tract. Among the guests will be their neighbors, the Albert E. Castles, former Easterners. She is a transfer from the Junior League of Rochester, N.Y. to the San Francisco League, and almost immediately after her arrival in California, she was chosen to model in the league's spectacular fashion show last year.

Others invited to the McPherson's dinner are Messrs. and Mesdames T. L. Schoonmaker, Jerome Adams, Everett Iversen, John Speh, Raymond Hoffman, Harold Morgan, Preston Jones of Marin, Max Kniesche of San Francisco and William Moores of Ukiah.

A HOLIDAY PARTY is being given this evening by the Jordan L. Martinellis Jr. at their home in San Anselmo. They've invited about 80 friends to come for cocktails.

A PLEASANT TRADITION is the party Dr. and Mrs. James Green of Ross host during the holidays. They've invited a large number of friends to their glogg party on Dec. 18. Adelaide Green explains that the base of glogg, a Norwegian beverage, is mulled wine.

A WEEK FROM TONIGHT, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evju of San Rafael are entertaining at a cocktail party for about 100 guests, many of them Golf Tract neighbors.

DINNER GUESTS of New York's governor, Nelson Rockefeller, and his wife last night at the governor's mansion were California State Sen. and Mrs. John (Jack) McCarthy of San Rafael, who flew to New York yesterday by jet. After dinner the McCarthys and the Rockefellers went to the theater. The McCarthys will be east about a week. Jack will attend the first national conference of legislative leaders in Albany, and his wife will take in as many of the shows in New York as she can because drama is one of her great interests.

A DOUBLE CELEBRATION was the reason for the visit Mrs. Benedict Giusto of San Anselmo and her daughter, Candy, made in the south. They flew to Long Beach to spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Giusto's other daughter, Mrs. Robert B. Finn III (Margaret Giusto), her husband, Lt. Finn, USN, and their baby daughter, Shannon Lee. On Sunday afternoon the baby was baptized at St. Bartholemew's Church and Candy was the godmother. Godfather of the little one was Bob Finn's fraternity brother, Nicholas Holt of the well known Monterey family, who is attending UCLA. A reception at the Finns' home followed the religious rites. Mrs. Giusto and Candy boarded the plane for the homeward flight on Monday.

Lt. Finn, who has been stationed in Long Beach has been transferred to Washington, D.C. He and his wife and baby will arrive before Christmas to visit with his parents, the Robert B. Finns Jr. of San Rafael, and Mrs. Giusto and then in January will leave by car for Washington where Bob will be stationed for two years.

NEW ADDRESSES are on Christmas card lists. The Charles Fulchers, who have lived for 20 years in Ross, have sold their home there to the I. Wayland Bonbrights Jr., also of Ross. The Fulchers moved on Thursday to the Clay-Jones apartments in San Francisco. How long the Fulchers will stay there they don't know. Perhaps they will build in Marin. Mrs. Fulcher is continuing as secretary of the Wine and Food Society of Marin.

MRS. JAMES LEACH and Mrs. Carl Weber of San Anselmo left Tuesday by jet for New York. There they were met by Edouard (Ned) Bossange, and he drove them to the Bossange home in Syosett, Long Island, where they stayed overnight. Ned and Evie and their children recently moved East from Kent Woodlands.

After the stay with the Bossanges, Mrs. Leach and Mrs. Weber flew to England, visiting in Manchester first. Mr. Leach will join his wife in London for Christmas .

A SOUTH AMERICAN cruise is the happy prospect of the Hammond Wrights of San Anselmo who leave on Wednesday to drive to the port of embarkation, New Orleans. There on Dec. 23 they'll board the Delta Lines' "Del Sud" for the cruise. With them will be Miss Marjorie Pittman of Carmel, formerly of Ross. The cruise, which will take six weeks, includes visits to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Montevideo and Buenos Aires.

IN MID-JANUARY, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carruthers will leave on a 17-day cruise on the "Oronsay," sailing from Los Angeles. The liner will make port at Acapulco, Hilo and Honolulu and return to Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers will visit their daughter, Mrs. Malcolm Rorty (Nancy Carruthers), her husband and their two children in the south, and then go to Palm Springs, returning to their Kent Woodlands home in April. During their absence the home will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daiss of Los Altos. The Rortys, who will spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers, now reside in Garden Grove but will move after the first of the year to the house they have bought in Palos Verdes.

ENGAGEMENT of Merle Schlumberger and Edward Douglas Ritchie (above) has been announced by her mother, Mrs. David E. Kendall of San Anselmo. The young man is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ritchie of Fairfax. (Photo by A. Walter McMurry)

Hearing Set Monday On Novato Park-Pool

Hearing on application by the Rotary Club of Novato for a use permit to provide for a public swimming pool-park facility in a central part of Novato has been set for 9 a.m. Monday before the Marin County Planning Commission.

Ultimate purpose, it was learned today, is to convey the property either to an incorporated city if incorporation goes through, or to a recreation district. Two acres of land are involved and the price is to be kept fixed at a low amount while the pool will be a Rotary gift.

Bill Jonas, chairman of the Novato club's community service committee, explained today that a study committee's findings some time ago showed an outstanding need for recreational facilities.

Novato has no public park, and many have felt that a public swimming pool is especially in demand. So a quiet search for a good location was undertaken and choice settled on a two-acre holding of Oscar Houge, a member of Rotary, on the northeast corner of Virginia avenue at Simmons Lane.

Tentative plans have been made for a pool at least 30 by 60 feet, with landscaping of the rest of the lot which would be held for purchase at a nominal figure any time within the next five years.

"We feel that something should be done without more delay, as properties are going up fast for business purposes," explained Jonas.

Several other Novato matters will come up Monday. Set for 2 p.m. is public hearing on a tentative map of Oakwood Manor, 44 acres to be divided into 104 lots west of Novato High school.

Set for 10 a.m. is a public hearing on application of Harold Walton to obtain a use permit for a ballet school to be established at 799 Plaza Linda, Novato.

Sausalito Unit Protests Plan For Buildings

The Sausalito Citizens' Council voted Thursday to oppose construction of five six-unit apartments on two underwater blocks off Richardson street at Bridgeway and Front.

A public hearing on a request for a use permit by Views Land Co. to build the apartments is scheduled by the planning commission for 8 p.m. Wednesday at the city hall.

The council's protest will be forwarded to the planners for that meeting, said council secretary Carl Spring.

He said the council felt Views Land Co. is asking for too many variances, but the council's main concern is the lack of parking facilities. He said the company has made no provision for off-street parking for guests.

Agriculture Chief Benson Recovering After Surgery

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson continued to make a normal recovery today at Walter Reed Army Medical Center where he underwent surgery yesterday for removal of his gall bladder.

The 60-year-old cabinet officer showed such good post-operative progress that the hospital discontinued issuing medical bulletins after an evening advisory yesterday. It said Benson was reacting well "and his condition is very satisfactory."

The surgical team which performed the 90-minute operation yesterday morning was headed by Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Army surgeon general who operated on President Eisenhower.

State Consumer Council Plans Education Program On Credit

Mrs. Helen Ewing Nelson of Mill Valley, California's first consumer counsel, said last night that her office plans to start an immediate educational program on what she considers the most pressing of consumer problems—credit.

"There is very little understanding on the part people using credit play in its true cost," she said. "The time is long overdue to begin looking at institutions from the point of view of the borrower, instead of the man who puts money in."

She also hopes to begin a regular service of informational bulletins to newspapers, as well as providing educational material to other sources.

Mrs. Nelson spoke at a public meeting in Greenbrae School, sponsored by the Marin Cooperative and Marin Mutual Aid Credit Union.

Also in the planning stage is a conference early next year, probably in Los Angeles, on the problem of warranties on major household appliances. Mrs. Nelson said the California Retailers Assn. has offered to cooperate. She hopes to get manufacturers' representatives, retailers and consumers together at the conference.

Mrs. Nelson, whose job has been said to represent the "conscience of California," said she could only voice "what a great number of people want me to say for them and are willing to support actively."

She observed that there will be "so many opportunities to oppose things at the next general session of the Legislature that I will have to be selective. It is fantastic—the number of decisions made by public bodies that affect us."

Her office, she said, will serve as a focal point for consumer interests, a place for consumers to communicate with each other.

Mrs. Nelson said she is working with the consumer fraud division of the attorney-general's office on legislation to prevent the consumer from being sold a life-time membership of some kind without assurance that the selling organization will be there tomorrow.

Hearing Set Monday On Novato Park-Pool

Hearing on application by the Rotary Club of Novato for a use permit to provide for a public swimming pool-park facility in a central part of Novato has been set for 9 a.m. Monday before the Marin County Planning Commission.

Ultimate purpose, it was learned today, is to convey the property either to an incorporated city if incorporation goes through, or to a recreation district. Two acres of land are involved and the price is to be kept fixed at a low amount while the pool will be a Rotary gift.

Bill Jonas, chairman of the Novato club's community service committee, explained today that a study committee's findings some time ago showed an outstanding need for recreational facilities.

Novato has no public park, and many have felt that a public swimming pool is especially in demand. So a quiet search for a good location was undertaken and choice settled on a two-acre holding of Oscar Houge, a member of Rotary, on the northeast corner of Virginia avenue at Simmons Lane.

Tentative plans have been made for a pool at least 30 by 60 feet, with landscaping of the rest of the lot which would be held for purchase at a nominal figure any time within the next five years.

"We feel that something should be done without more delay, as properties are going up fast for business purposes," explained Jonas.

Several other Novato matters will come up Monday. Set for 2 p.m. is public hearing on a tentative map of Oakwood Manor, 44 acres to be divided into 104 lots west of Novato High school.

Set for 10 a.m. is a public hearing on application of Harold Walton to obtain a use permit for a ballet school to be established at 799 Plaza Linda, Novato.

Sausalito Unit Protests Plan For Buildings

The Sausalito Citizens' Council voted Thursday to oppose construction of five six-unit apartments on two underwater blocks off Richardson street at Bridgeway and Front.

A public hearing on a request for a use permit by Views Land Co. to build the apartments is scheduled by the planning commission for 8 p.m. Wednesday at the city hall.

The council's protest will be forwarded to the planners for that meeting, said council secretary Carl Spring.

He said the council felt Views Land Co. is asking for too many variances, but the council's main concern is the lack of parking facilities. He said the company has made no provision for off-street parking for guests.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

How Can We Help Children, Yet Not Aid Immorality?

The ruling of a District Court of Appeals in the Contra Costa case of two unwed mothers who continued to have children, poses a serious question for all of us. Briefly, the facts are these:

Two Pittsburg women, both 24 years of age, were hauled into court on a charge of fraudulently accepting state aid payments for their children. One had three children, the other six. The judge put them on probation providing they had no more children unless they married.

One of the women recently had another child; the other, who has six, is expecting twins.

The Pittsburg Justice Court ordered them jailed for violation of their probation. The appeals court let them out on bail pending a hearing of the propriety of being jailed for having children out of wedlock.

There are, of course, a number of moral issues at stake here. There also is a practical problem from the point of view of the taxpayer.

These two women have collected more than $10,000 in state children's aid in the past six years. They are only two of hundreds of such cases. A recent state report showed that a great many women were living solely on state aid given their illegitimate children.

The dilemma in which the public finds itself is how the state aid program can be regulated to prevent encouragement of immorality, while at the same time making sure that all needy children are being taken care of.

Certainly no one would consider refusing state aid to some helpless child just because he had no father of record. At the same time, the state should have some right to prohibit an unwed mother from having further children which the state must support. It is not fair to the child or to society to start a life in this manner.

We have no solution to the dilemma. Perhaps the church or psychiatry or sociology or welfare workers can help our legislators find one.

REWARDS OF BIBLE READING

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

NO THANKS FROM THE CAT

Little dreaming that the family cat was nestled in the half-dry wash, a housewife in Florida bundled the sheets into a clothes dryer.

When a strange bumping developed, she called her husband to investigate. He opened the door of the dryer and the haggard pet staggered out, more dead than alive.

Its tongue was parched and hanging out, its hair stood on end, and it had no more than a glassy stare for the family.

The startled husband tried to help the cat which was gasping for air, but his efforts were thwarted when the terrified animal nipped his hand. Happily, both the cat and husband recovered.

Many times we fail to get recognition or thanks for our efforts. Don't be too surprised if those who have suffered seem ungrateful when you go out of your way to help them.

Make allowance for them in Christ's name. The important thing is that you have done your part.

"Do good and lend, not hoping for any return, and your reward shall be great."
(Luke 6:35)

Help me, O My Savior, to show an understanding heart toward those who seem ungrateful.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Joe Wilson Has Inside Track For Democratic Assembly Backing

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Battle lines are drawing tighter in the race for the Marin-Sonoma Assembly seat being vacated by Richard H. McCollister, now a resident of Sacramento.

The Democrats are closing ranks behind Joseph G. Wilson former San Rafael city councilman. As one insider put it: "Everyone else is fading into the woodwork."

One reason seems to be that few candidates feel they can take the time from their personal business to attend to state business. Joe's law partners have agreed to his absence. Lothar Salin admittedly dropped out for this reason. Price Hall of Corte Madera, a public relations man who sent up a trial balloon some weeks back, is looking around for a candidate to handle in next year's jousts, so apparently he's not going to spend much time on a campaign of his own.

There had been rumblings too in Sonoma, several possible candidates mentioned. But the story now goes out that Joe Wilson and Sonoma Senator Joseph Rattigan are friendly and that the senator is doing his bit to discourage all Sonoma aspirants.

Rattigan wants a Democrat to win the Republican seat, and thinks that a Marin Democrat has a better chance of getting backing in Republican Marin while Sonoma Democrats, who are in the majority there, will go along with the party's nomination anyway.

ON THE REPUBLICAN side we've been hearing less and less about the candidacy of Dist. Atty. W. O. Weissich. It looks like he will not take up a spear.

But there should be a real battle between William T. Bagley, the San Rafael attorney, Sonoma Supervisor Leigh Shoemaker for the GOP nomination.

THE MARIN Senate race is still a two-man affair and looks like it will end up that way.

Democrat Charles M. Geller, San Anselmo labor leader, has a clear field on his ticket, while incumbent Senator John F. McCarthy, San Rafael Republican, isn't being challenged in his own party.

McCarthy is doing considerable campaigning already. Possibly because he might not have much time later if Gov. Nelson Rockefeller decides to enter the California primaries for President. McCarthy is scheduled to handle his campaign if that happens.

THE BI-PARTISAN League For Good Government, which we mentioned here last week, was formally organized at a small Santa Rosa meeting.

The group elected Democrat Eugene G. Finn and Republican ex-Congressman Hubert B. Scudder as co-chairmen. R. O .Francke is the treasurer and Wilmot P. Rogers, secretary. All are from Santa Rosa except Scudder, who lives in Sebastopol.

The co-chairmen are scheduled to bring in recommendations next meeting, Dec. 12, as to formation of an executive committee. Selection of an advisory committee also will be discussed at that time.

Membership will be sought from voters in both parties throughout the coast counties.

THE CYNIC'S CORNER By Interlandi

"Everybody says the country needs a 'national purpose,' all we have to do is convince 'em that it's putting you into national office!"

10 YEARS AGO

Somebody unknown painted a hammer and sickle in yellow on signs in the driveway of the Ross home of Vincent Hallinan, attorney defending Harry Bridges in a San Francisco perjury trial. But Hallinan said, "I do not think the vandalism was done because of any widespread feeling about my connection with Bridges' trial, for I've had it happen before when I've been on other cases." Hallinan asked no protection; Assist. Police Chief A. T. Henrich commented, "He just got out there with those kids of his and cleaned off the paint."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

More About That Redwood Prom

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The Fairfax teacher's letter regarding the Redwood Senior Prom in your Nov. 27 issue charges the Tam school board with "yielding" to a "pressure group seeking selfish ends" and "ignoring implied or unwritten law and established procedures"; and suggests that high school seniors "investigate this whole affair" as undemocratic.

The following facts lead to quite opposite conclusions:

1. The Tam board had already heard the detailed pros and cons at a previous meeting. On Nov. 16, proponents and opponents again spoke, and the board made a ruling that was something of a compromise, but which clearly reflected their independent thinking on the merits of the arguments presented.

2. The "large delegation" of Redwood parents present was but a representative sample of the more than 250 parents of seniors who had signed petitions or written letters favoring holding the Prom in San Francisco.

The considered judgement of these parents, based on the welfare and safety of their sons and daughters, could not be taken lightly; and their practically unanimous support together with that of the seniors was not a vocal minority or "pressure group," but was the will of the majority being plainly expressed in a proper and democratic way.

The efforts of the parents in working toward a successful and memorable Prom for the seniors were commendable, and certainly could not be termed "seeking selfish ends."

3. The Redwood group did not "ignore implied or unwritten law and established procedures." To the contrary, they first took the matter up at the administrative level with the superintendent of schools, and were assured that there was no board ruling against holding the Prom in San Francisco.

The seniors were then informed and the planning began.

Subsequently, upon protest from a P-TA member of another school in the district, the Administrative Council took an adverse position without giving reasons.

4. The Redwood High seniors did indeed follow the "whole affair" very closely, and many were extremely upset over the inept handling of the matter, whereby the original go-ahead was reversed.

Some seniors proposed visiting the superintendent of schools to ask why their plan was now opposed. They were astounded to learn that a fathers' committee, appearing for a promised Administrative Council hearing set for 8:30 a.m. on Nov. 16, was told the meeting had already been held.

Fortunately, the successful appeal that evening to the Tam board restored their confidence in our democratic processes.

5. There is nothing unusual in holding social and sports events outside of the county. For example, both San Rafael High and Tam High have held Senior Proms in San Francisco, and students often drive to night football games at considerable distances, such as Vallejo and Stockton.

A Redwood Prom, held in San Francisco and supervised by the parents and participating teachers, is not different. The Redwood seniors, who are so soon to assume their responsibilities in the world, are entitled to a reasonable choice of location, particularly since they are raising the entire funds for the affair through doughtnut sales and small monthly dues, thus assuring every senior of a free bid.

It was both unfortunate and unnecessary that so much confusion developed over this matter.

Dr. Jack Willis Not Forgotten

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

A line in respect to the memory of Dr. Jack Willis, who has passed from this life. I just want to say he is not forgotten.

Any person that did not attend his funeral yesterday (Nov. 30) at Russell and Gooch Funeral Parlors and did not know of the service should have been told about it. I doubt if any one could have found room, as there was standing room only, and they were not curiosity seekers either. They were all his true friends.

I quote the words of the minister, "If any one doubts the friends of Dr. Willis, he only has to look around the room."

The service was the most beautiful I ever heard and such a comfort to his devoted wife and his family. What a wonderful thing that there are those who can and will speak the truth and help those in sorrow!

The beautiful flowers that covered the room attested to his warm heart and friendship.

I and many, many more, will miss him sadly.

I am amazed that it is even possible to attempt a recall of a legally appointed commissioner simply because the rest of the commission likes some one else better. If this be the case, what authority or power would any appointive authority have if it had to bow to the 'recommendation' of boards, commission et al where vacancies exist . . . and especially bow via the medium of recall of the legal appointee before that appointee has been seated.

Is it not a suspicious circumstance that a board can become so riled when a fifth member is appointed who can easily be outvoted? Can any other conclusion be reached than there must be something they wish to keep self-contained or do they merely wish to be self-perpetuating?

Timing Of New Carillon May Be Discouraging Psychologically

San Rafael's Old Faithful, the fire whistle, is gone. But there's a new chiming device in town to take its place—almost, but not quite.

The Northwestern Savings and Loan Assn. at Fifth and B streets has installed a carillon, a series of bells that chime three times a day and play tunes to boot.

Only trouble is, they chime at 9 a.m., 1 p.m., and 4 p.m. Sometimes at 3 p.m. The tunes aren't absolutely determined yet.

When Old Faithful used to blow, it was "time for work," then "off for lunch," and "time to go home."

Now when the morning chime rings, it's "Gosh, only one hour passed!" Then comes 1 p.m., "Lunch hour over already?" And 4 p.m., "One full hour to go yet."

Psychologically it's discouraging, but the melodies that follow make up for it. Besides, Christmas carols emanating from the carillon should add considerably to the holiday atmosphere in town.

WHEN SHERIFF Lou Mountanos said his men were "working round-the-clock" on the Lax murder case, he meant it.

At least two men were shivering in the dark Kentfield thicket all night for more than two weeks. If you don't think it's cold out there, just ask the four young gents who went visiting one night to be greeted by the sheriff's reception committee. They tell me teeth were chattering all over the place.

There was no need for the officers to command: "Hands up! Freeze!" Everybody was already freezing.

NO WONDER Marin's six judges chose the legal profession instead of going into the tailoring business.

The other day they measured themselves for their new robes and sent the precise measurements to the factory. Back came the gowns. Judge Thomas Keating took one look at his and sent it right back.

"They must have measured it for Leo Nomellini," he explained.

Sleeves were a foot too long on several of them. They would have really had to roll their sleeves to get to work.

But quick alterations did the trick. The robes are made of fabric called Beauty Queen.

THE OTHER DAY an upright young citizen who was found temporarily horizontal came before the judge.

"Now how much beer did you have? And be truthful," the judge intoned.

"Only about three," came the honest reply. "About three six-packs, your honor."

SPEAKING OF beer, "Have you got beer stocked up for this winter?" asks radio man Bill Thompson.

Nixon, Rockefeller Avoiding Harsh Words; Backers Less Restrained

The anxious question in the minds of many Republican leaders today is whether Vice President Richard Nixon and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller can escape getting into a divisive, lacerating, mutually belittling, personal battle.

Part of the answer—and it is reassuring—is that neither of the two principals, if I am correctly informed, wish or intend to get into a disparaging, name-calling campaign designed to undercut each other's stature.

The other part of the answer—and it is far from reassuring—is that already some of the active supporters of each are trying to foment a feud between Nixon and Rockefeller and to goad them into hitting the other below the belt.

THERE ARE TWO good reasons why the vice president and the governor themselves draw away from such tactics.

One is that on the basis of their intimate association durthe first Eisenhower term, they developed a high regard and esteem for each other. Rockefeller was often a "minority" adviser in the White House staff, but he found Nixon on his side more often than any other member of the Cabinet.

But apart from considerable admiration for each other, they are likely to end up convincing too many voters that both are undersize for the presidency.

IF THERE IS to be a real Nixon-Rockefeller contest what each wants is to use it to help make the Republican nomination worth having, that is, to improve the prospects of election.

Rockefeller has at least twice shown that he is not disposed to be pressured into disparagement of Nixon.

But quite a few Republican politicians, who think they can thereby curry favor with Rockefeller, constantly drop suggestions that the public hates Nixon," they pass along banter about the 1952 "Nixon Fund."

In Oregon one Rockefeller backer tried to start an "ABCD Club" which he gleefully said meant "any body 'cept Dick." A Rockefeller supporter in California implied to reporters that Nixon was anti-Semitic, anti-Negro, anti-minority.

THIS KIND OF thing is not all one-sided by any means. There are Nixon devotees who both imply and sometimes say openly that Rockefeller is not quite bright, that everything about him is "synthetic."

There also are dark whispers—easily heard across the room — that Rockefeller is plotting to "buy" the nomination, that Rockefeller is not really a Republican at all, that the "Rockefeller interests" are putting people on payrolls like mad for later use in the campaign.

What I am reporting is that the short-sighted, ill-advised, over-zealous Nixon and Rockefeller supporters are doing their best to get the two Republican leaders at each other's throat.

THERE ARE SOME mixed motivations in both camps. Rockefeller has some allies who are more anti-Nixon than they are pro-Rockefeller and some of Nixon's boosters are more anti-Rockefeller than they are pro-Nixon. These allies can do more harm than good.

How Can We Help Children, Yet Not Aid Immorality?

The ruling of a District Court of Appeals in the Contra Costa case of two unwed mothers who continued to have children, poses a serious question for all of us. Briefly, the facts are these:

Two Pittsburg women, both 24 years of age, were hauled into court on a charge of fraudulently accepting state aid payments for their children. One had three children, the other six. The judge put them on probation providing they had no more children unless they married.

One of the women recently had another child; the other, who has six, is expecting twins.

The Pittsburg Justice Court ordered them jailed for violation of their probation. The appeals court let them out on bail pending a hearing of the propriety of being jailed for having children out of wedlock.

There are, of course, a number of moral issues at stake here. There also is a practical problem from the point of view of the taxpayer.

These two women have collected more than $10,000 in state children's aid in the past six years. They are only two of hundreds of such cases. A recent state report showed that a great many women were living solely on state aid given their illegitimate children.

The dilemma in which the public finds itself is how the state aid program can be regulated to prevent encouragement of immorality, while at the same time making sure that all needy children are being taken care of.

Certainly no one would consider refusing state aid to some helpless child just because he had no father of record. At the same time, the state should have some right to prohibit an unwed mother from having further children which the state must support. It is not fair to the child or to society to start a life in this manner.

We have no solution to the dilemma. Perhaps the church or psychiatry or sociology or welfare workers can help our legislators find one.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

NO THANKS FROM THE CAT

Little dreaming that the family cat was nestled in the half-dry wash, a housewife in Florida bundled the sheets into a clothes dryer.

When a strange bumping developed, she called her husband to investigate. He opened the door of the dryer and the haggard pet staggered out, more dead than alive.

Its tongue was parched and hanging out, its hair stood on end, and it had no more than a glassy stare for the family.

The startled husband tried to help the cat which was gasping for air, but his efforts were thwarted when the terrified animal nipped his hand. Happily, both the cat and husband recovered.

Many times we fail to get recognition or thanks for our efforts. Don't be too surprised if those who have suffered seem ungrateful when you go out of your way to help them.

Make allowance for them in Christ's name. The important thing is that you have done your part.

"Do good and lend, not hoping for any return, and your reward shall be great."
(Luke 6:35)

Help me, O My Savior, to show an understanding heart toward those who seem ungrateful.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Joe Wilson Has Inside Track For Democratic Assembly Backing

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Battle lines are drawing tighter in the race for the Marin-Sonoma Assembly seat being vacated by Richard H. McCollister, now a resident of Sacramento.

The Democrats are closing ranks behind Joseph G. Wilson former San Rafael city councilman. As one insider put it: "Everyone else is fading into the woodwork."

One reason seems to be that few candidates feel they can take the time from their personal business to attend to state business. Joe's law partners have agreed to his absence. Lothar Salin admittedly dropped out for this reason. Price Hall of Corte Madera, a public relations man who sent up a trial balloon some weeks back, is looking around for a candidate to handle in next year's jousts, so apparently he's not going to spend much time on a campaign of his own.

There had been rumblings too in Sonoma, several possible candidates mentioned. But the story now goes out that Joe Wilson and Sonoma Senator Joseph Rattigan are friendly and that the senator is doing his bit to discourage all Sonoma aspirants.

Rattigan wants a Democrat to win the Republican seat, and thinks that a Marin Democrat has a better chance of getting backing in Republican Marin while Sonoma Democrats, who are in the majority there, will go along with the party's nomination anyway.

ON THE REPUBLICAN side we've been hearing less and less about the candidacy of Dist. Atty. W. O. Weissich. It looks like he will not take up a spear.

But there should be a real battle between William T. Bagley, the San Rafael attorney, Sonoma Supervisor Leigh Shoemaker for the GOP nomination.

THE MARIN Senate race is still a two-man affair and looks like it will end up that way.

Democrat Charles M. Geller, San Anselmo labor leader, has a clear field on his ticket, while incumbent Senator John F. McCarthy, San Rafael Republican, isn't being challenged in his own party.

McCarthy is doing considerable campaigning already. Possibly because he might not have much time later if Gov. Nelson Rockefeller decides to enter the California primaries for President. McCarthy is scheduled to handle his campaign if that happens.

THE BI-PARTISAN League For Good Government, which we mentioned here last week, was formally organized at a small Santa Rosa meeting.

The group elected Democrat Eugene G. Finn and Republican ex-Congressman Hubert B. Scudder as co-chairmen. R. O .Francke is the treasurer and Wilmot P. Rogers, secretary. All are from Santa Rosa except Scudder, who lives in Sebastopol.

The co-chairmen are scheduled to bring in recommendations next meeting, Dec. 12, as to formation of an executive committee. Selection of an advisory committee also will be discussed at that time.

Membership will be sought from voters in both parties throughout the coast counties.

More About That Redwood Prom

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The Fairfax teacher's letter regarding the Redwood Senior Prom in your Nov. 27 issue charges the Tam school board with "yielding" to a "pressure group seeking selfish ends" and "ignoring implied or unwritten law and established procedures"; and suggests that high school seniors "investigate this whole affair" as undemocratic.

The following facts lead to quite opposite conclusions:

1. The Tam board had already heard the detailed pros and cons at a previous meeting. On Nov. 16, proponents and opponents again spoke, and the board made a ruling that was something of a compromise, but which clearly reflected their independent thinking on the merits of the arguments presented.

2. The "large delegation" of Redwood parents present was but a representative sample of the more than 250 parents of seniors who had signed petitions or written letters favoring holding the Prom in San Francisco.

The considered judgement of these parents, based on the welfare and safety of their sons and daughters, could not be taken lightly; and their practically unanimous support together with that of the seniors was not a vocal minority or "pressure group," but was the will of the majority being plainly expressed in a proper and democratic way.

The efforts of the parents in working toward a successful and memorable Prom for the seniors were commendable, and certainly could not be termed "seeking selfish ends."

3. The Redwood group did not "ignore implied or unwritten law and established procedures." To the contrary, they first took the matter up at the administrative level with the superintendent of schools, and were assured that there was no board ruling against holding the Prom in San Francisco.

The seniors were then informed and the planning began.

Subsequently, upon protest from a P-TA member of another school in the district, the Administrative Council took an adverse position without giving reasons.

Fullmer May Take Crack At Moore Next

By JACK STEVENSON

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Power-punching Gene Fullmer, reigning solidly as king of the NBA middleweight class, contemplates stepping up a rung to challenge venerable lightheavy champ Archie Moore.

Or possibly he might clear the 160-pound picture by fighting Sugar Ray Robinson again if Robinson has any desire for such a bout.

Fullmer took solid possession of the NBA diadem and won the right to do some bargaining for future fights by scoring a unanimous decision over Spider Webb in 15 gruelling rounds at the Utah State University Fieldhouse last night.

This time non-collegian Fullmer—from West Jordan, Utah, and weighing 159¾ pounds — proved the master of Webb, who fought on the Idaho State College team before turning pro in 1953. The Chicagian Webb weighed 157¾. Both are 23 years old.

Fullmer switched strategies frequently during the nationally televised fight as his manager, Marv Jenson, called code numbers from the corner. Fullmer fought out of an arms-crossed defense, led with a smashing right to the body or tried the more orthodox left-hand lead.

Webb made him look awkward frequently.

The cards of Referee Ken Shulsen and Judges Boyd Mattison and Del Markham all had the champion well ahead. Shulsen scored it 147-141, Mattison 150-132 and Markham 148-136. The Associated Press card showed 146-142.

Fullmer, receiving 40 per cent of the approximate $86,000 gate from a capacity crowd of 7,100, and of $100,000 TV money, will collect about $70,000. Webb will get $35,000.

"I wouldn't exactly say I won every round," Fullmer declared in the dressing room. But he added he felt he was the clear winner.

Jenson talked of two possible big-money shots for his bomber—Moore or Robinson with ex-champ Bobo Olson perhaps in a nontitle affair.

Robinson comes into the picture since he still holds recognition as the 160-pound champion in New York and Massachusetts. If Ray beats Paul Pender in their January bout, Jenson indicated Fullmer would be more than pleased to tackle Robinson again.

Giants, Browns In Eastern 'Crucial'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sam Huff came into the National Football League in 1956, one year before Jimmy Brown. Sam's been waiting for the big Cleveland fullback ever since.

Linebacker Huff will be at Yankee Stadium tomorrow, watching and waiting for Brown to come storming into the New York Giants' line. And on this personal test between the league's leading ground gainer and its most respected middle linebacker rides the championship of the Eastern Conference.

The Giants are five-point favorites to defeat the Browns and gain the NFL championship round Dec. 27 against the Western winner.

The defending league champs, the Baltimore Colts, were at San Francisco today in a showdown for first in the Western Conference. The Colts and 49ers both had 7-3 records with two games to play.

The Chicago Bears (6-4) can attain the season's longest winning streak by whipping Pittsburgh (5-4-1) tomorrow. But the sizzling Steelers recently clipped the Giants' and Browns' five-game streaks and could do the same to the Bears who are still eyeing the Western crown. Chicago is a seven-point favorite to make it six straight.

Philadelphia, tied for second in the East with Cleveland at 6-4, is a three-point favorite at Washington over the Redskins (3-7).

Los Angeles (2-8) can count one bright spot in a dismal season. The Rams knocked off Green Bay (5-5) at a time when the Packers were the league's only unbeaten club. The Rams, who have dropped six straight over the Packers, are conservative six-point favorites at Los Angeles this time.

MEANINGLESS GAME

In another meaningless meeting, the Detroit Lions (2-7-1) are four-point home favorites over the Chicago Cardinals (2-8).

Giant defensive coach Tom Landry gave Huff a special job early last season. All Sam had to do was dog Brown on every play whenever the Giants played Cleveland. The teams met three times last year and the Giants won them all, including the Eastern playoff in which New York hung up a 10-0 victory and Brown gained only eight yards.

Kentfield Boys Win 'Touch' Loop

The Redwood team of Kentfield has won the Drake Saturday Morning Recreation Program's touch football championship, Director Bob Fitzhenry announced today.

The Redwood team of 9-11-year-old boys won all seven games on the schedule. The champs include Jack Fitzhenry, Harvey Hand, Phil DeMaria, Connie Bricca, George Bertram, Henry Farre, Mike Paulsen, Jim Ballachey and Jay Sweet.

Eight teams participated in the league.

Mrs. Prydz Wins Trophy Day Golf

Mrs. George Prydz shot an 81-13—68 yesterday to win the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club "Trophy Day" tournament at Mill Valley.

Class A—Mrs. Richard Finn, 89-18—71; Mrs. Clay Lilleston, 91-19—72; Mrs. Fred Fellows, 94-21—73.

Class B—Mrs. A. E. Poarch, 99-25—74; Mrs. Hugh Cavalli, 98-23—75; tie for third between Mrs. Irvin Hansen, 101-24—77 and Mrs. W. B. Wilkie, 103-26—77.

WINTER'S A LITTLE BIT LATE

Mrs. Bunny Cotton, co-owner of Edelweiss ski resort on Highway 50, anticipated snow by now, and had this sign made — bidding goodbye to summer. But, alas, it is still summer weather in the Sierras, and Mrs. Cotton catches up on some sleep in — of all places — the chair lift. The Edelweiss, however, has used the "no-snow-weather" to good advantage as they are putting the finishing touches on a new imported Swiss T-bar.

Classy Mariners Roll Over San Mateo For Second Win

By BARRY McGOUGH

College of Marin Tars roared to their second consecutive basketball victory last night by trouncing the San Mateo Junior College Warriors 61-53 at Kentfield.

Sparked by Ken Anderson, the Tars pulled away to a quick 17-4 lead in the first half. Anderson had an impressive night as he netted 37.5 per cent of his field goal attempts and hit 12 of 14 from the charity line for 24 points which led all scorers.

The Tars led at half-time by 36-21 and continued to pull away in the second half. Coach Cal Riemcke then flooded the court with reserves. The Warriors finally found the range as they riddled the cords for 66 per cent of their second half floor attempts. At one point the score narrowed to 57-53, bringing the Tar first liners back in a hurry and they promtly put the game on ice.

Especially impressive was the Tar defense as they utilized a full court press throughout the contest and limited the Warrior offense to a paltry 38 field goal attempts. In the meantime Marin was connecting on 20 out of 58 attempts.

COACH IMPRESSED

Riemcke noted that "the first five, guards Robbie Harvey and Ray Nickleberry, forwards Ken Gelatti and Ken Anderson, and center Gerry Reese, played a fine game. I was also very pleased with our press defense," stated the mentor.

The Tars put their current winning streak on the line when they travel to Vallejo next Wednesday night to battle Vallejo J.C. in a contest scheduled for 8:30.

PREP CAGE ROUNDUP

Redwood, S.R. Off To A Fast Start

Redwood's Giants and San Rafael's Bulldogs got off to a fast start last night as Marin County's high school basketball season opened with all six teams in action.

Redwood exhibited a solid man-for-man defense and adequate offense led by Jeff Skinner to roll over San Francisco's Balboa, 37-25 at Redwood while the Bulldogs of San Rafael came through in the clutch with a great rally to trim Petaluma, 41-36 in overtime at San Rafael.

In other games last night, Sonoma trounced Novato, 34-14, at Sonoma; St. Ignatius downed Drake, 43-29 at Drake; Tamalpais Indians lost to College of Marin junior varsity, 39-26; and Marin Catholic, using a mixture of lower classmen and varsity, downed the school faculty, 35-32.

Redwood, rated a strong contender for the Marin County Athletic League title, jumped off to a 10-7 first quarter lead and then iced the game in the second and third periods by holding Balboa to two points in each of those quarters. Skinner led the Giants with 10 points while Eric Lindner added 8.

BULLDOGS RALLY

At San Rafael, before a surprisingly large crowd of nearly 1,000, the Bulldogs overcame an eight-point deficit in the fourth quarter to tie Petaluma, 34-34 at the end of the regulation game and then went on to victory in overtime. Terry Tevis was San Rafael's hero, scoring eight points in the late comeback and adding two more to open the overtime period. Others scoring in overtime were Bill Smart with three free throws and Doug Klyce with a field goal. Tevis and Randy Petrini shared scoring honors with 13 apiece.

At Sonoma, Novato worked its patterns well but the Hornets couldn't seem to buy a bucket in their loss to the Dragons, hitting only 2 of 11 foul shots and 13 per cent of their floor shots. Novato scored only one point in the third period as the hosts romped to a 28-8 lead. Kemper Eakle and Bill Hall each hit five points for the losers while Moe Sparrow starred defensively, and grabbed 10 rebounds.

The inexperienced Drake Pirates were no match for the strong Wildcats, falling behind 17-5 in the first period. Gary Jones was a bright light for Drake with 12 points while Sam Johnson and Jim Dawson turned in impressive all-around performances.

Tam's new coach, Eddie Chavez, was impressed with the Indians' defense, but noted first game jitters affected the offense in the game against Marin's jayvees. Also, Tam was without the services of first string veteran Ray Edwards who is sidelined with a shoulder injury.

Game honors went to Marin's Tom O'Neill with 12 while teammate Joe Chaparro and Tam's Conrad Hoetger each bagged 8. Hoetger collected 10 rebounds, tops in that department.

Redwood Champs Feted; End Wins Scholarship Award

End Jeff Skinner of Redwood High School's undefeated, untied varsity football squad has been named winner of the school's Senior Scholarship.

The award, presented to the senior football player who has maintained the highest grade average for his four years in high school, was one of many highlights announced Thursday night at the team's banquet at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

Skinner's trophy was presented by Redwood Principal Donald Kreps, who said the award has been established in many high schools "to prove that scholarship and athletics DO go together." Lineman Tom Solinsky won the honor last year.

The banquet, sponsored by the Redwood Benchwarmers Club, also featured the presentation of miniature gold footballs to each member of the 28-player varsity squad in recognition of its championship season.

Captains blankets were presented to fullbacks Sam Williams and guard Rick Weil and for the second straight year Head Coach Bob Troppman accepted the Tamalpais High School District championship trophy in competition with Tamalpais and Drake high schools.

The players gave Troppman an engraved wrist watch and Assistant Coach Al Endriss engraved cuff links.

President Eugene Ostaggi introduced a host of guests, including assistant coaches James Buckely, Eldon Bennett, Don Boucher and Paul Bosque, Redwood Physical Education Director Dick Hart, Team Physician Dr. Arnold Nutting and Independent-Journal Sports Editor Jim Gilmartin and Columnist John J. Connolly.

Redwood's championship squad included linemen Ed Marshall, Bill Purtell, Jeff Skinner, Rich Brear, Mike Hoffman, Mike McLeran, Rich Todt, Conn Hallinan, Bruce Tucker, Ben Chollar, Scott Zimmerman, Donn Meyer, Ralph Wood, John Clum, Rick Weil, Eric Lindner, Mike Walsh, John Suacci and backs Dave Bortfeld, Ted Whaley, Jim Lonsford, Sam Williams, Ned Griffith, Mike Alessio, Curtis Embry, Dave Ruta, Bob Ostaggi and Roger Siemens and Senior Manager Gary "Great" Scott.

Small Boats Duel Tomorrow In Lake Merritt's Regatta

By ALFRED MATSON

The fraternity of small boat sailors will head for the locked waters of Lake Merritt in Oakland tomorrow to participate in the Frost Bite Regatta given by the lake's long-established sailing club.

Two sets of races will comprise the program, the morning set getting under way at 10 o'clock, the afternoon start at 1:30.

The Marin delegation will have to hit the deck at an early hour to be on the scene and in readiness for the starting gun.

A hot lunch will be served between races. Race chairman will be Vern Warfield.

A peek into next year's YRA program reveals that one drastic change has been made in that organization's sponsored regattas. All races will be two-day events with the classes on one day and the boats racing in division categories the other.

The separation was predicated on the increased entry lists and number of classes. It seems the traffic jams at certain course markers, Crissy Field Buoy and No. 7 Buoy, in particular, made conditions untenable.

With good weather a major factor, the construction of the Corinthian Yacht Club harbor is progressing ahead of schedule. Bulkheading and fill for the parking area is near completion, and the breakwater is taking shape quickly. The harbor will berth 80 boats from 20 to 85 feet long.

End Jeff Skinner of Redwood High School's undefeated, untied varsity football squad has been named winner of the school's Senior Scholarship.

The award, presented to the senior football player who has maintained the highest grade average for his four years in high school, was one of many highlights announced Thursday night at the team's banquet at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

The banquet, sponsored by the Redwood Benchwarmers Club, also featured the presentation of miniature gold footballs to each member of the 28-player varsity squad in recognition of its championship season.

Captains blankets were presented to fullbacks Sam Williams and guard Rick Weil and for the second straight year Head Coach Bob Troppman accepted the Tamalpais High School District championship trophy in competition with Tamalpais and Drake high schools.

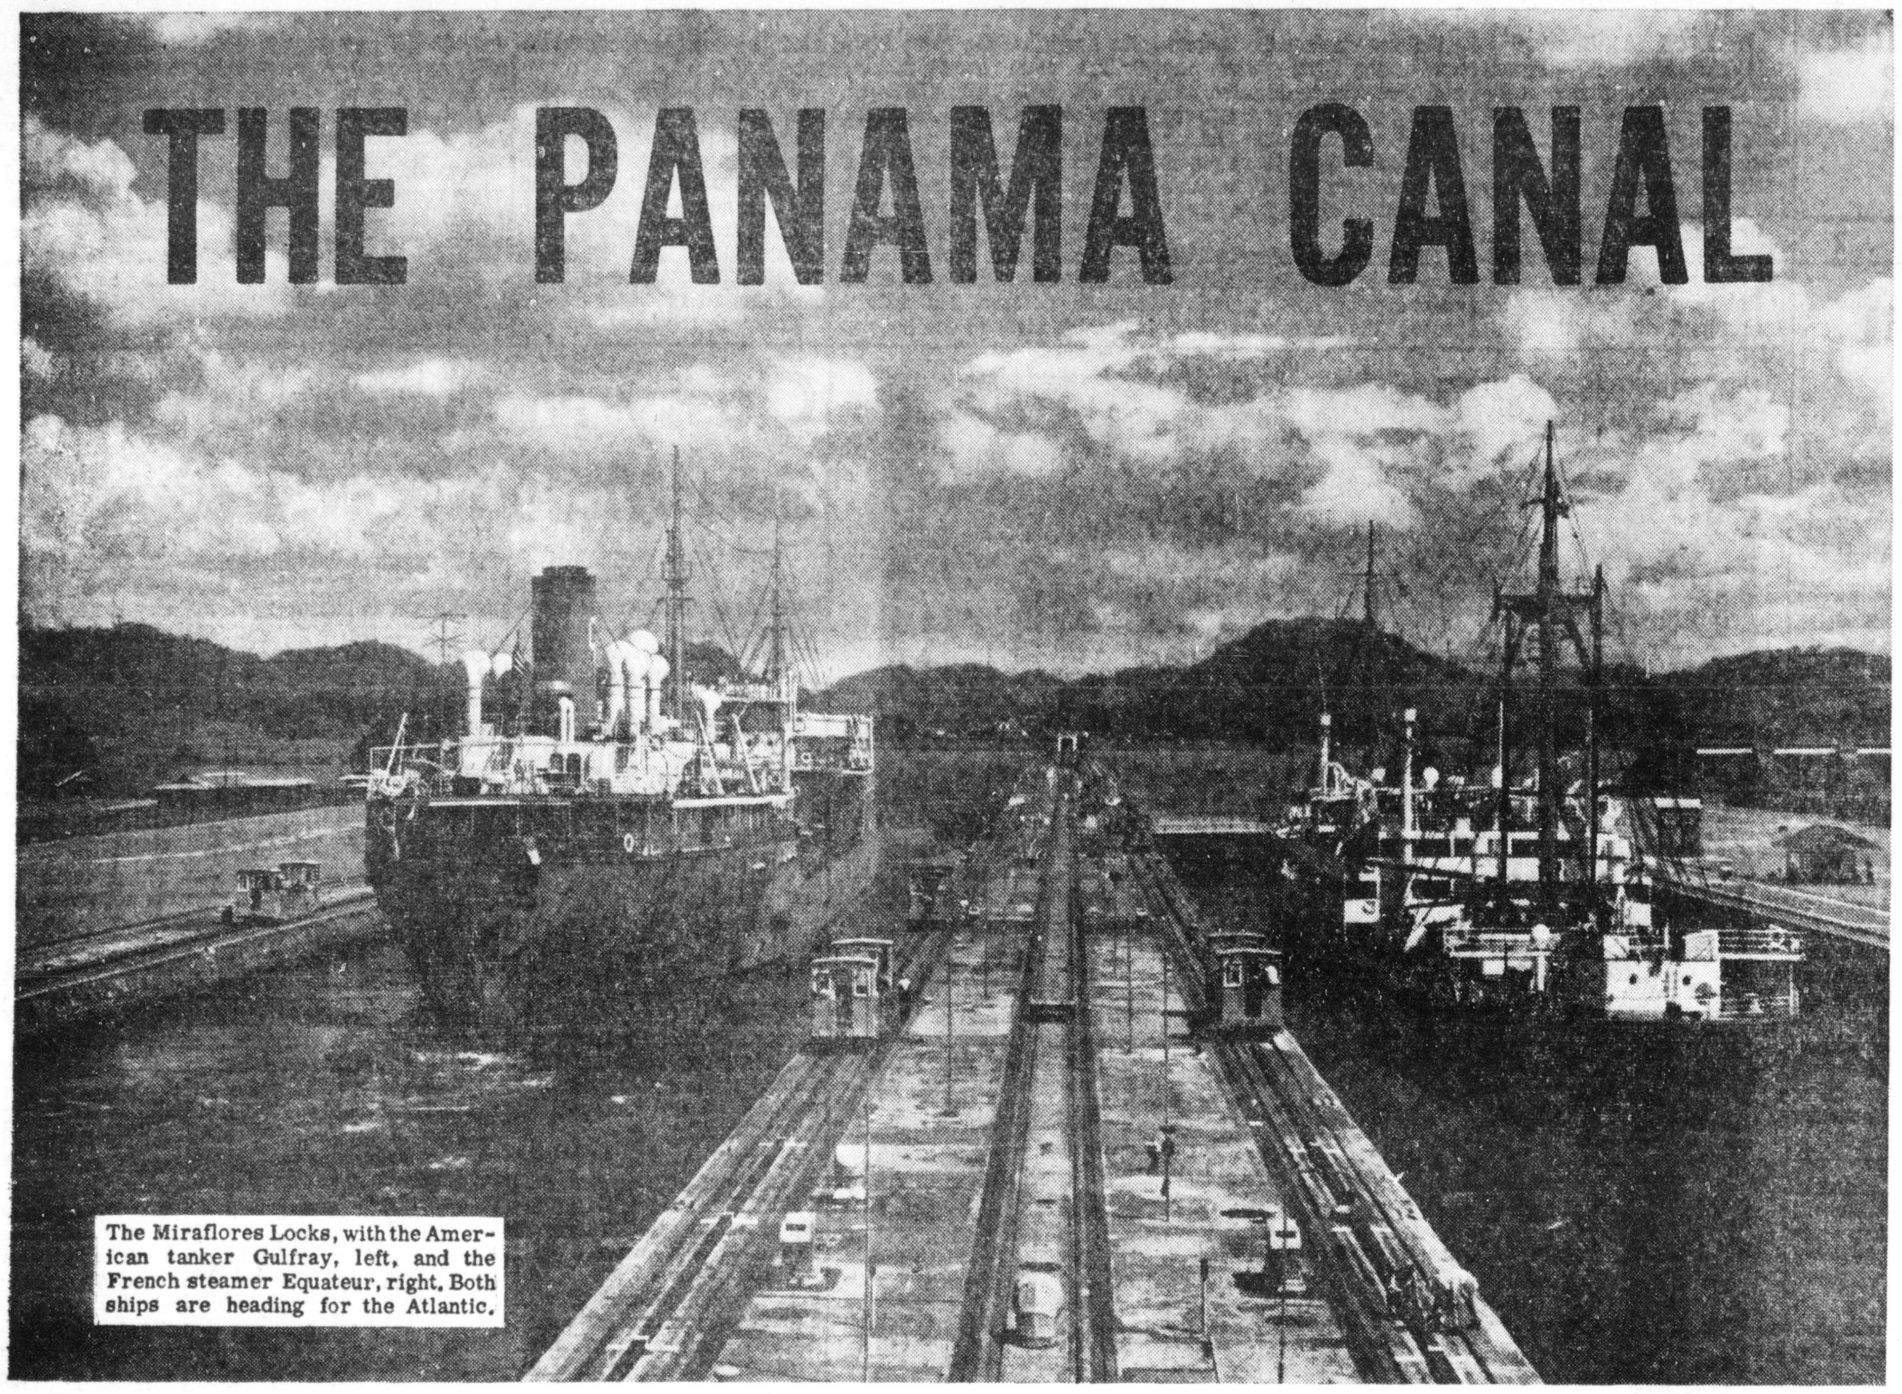
THE PANAMA CANAL



The Miraflores Locks, with the American tanker Gulfray, left, and the French steamer Equateur, right. Both ships are heading for the Atlantic.

Through the Panama Canal, again in the news, a quarter of a million ships have passed—an impressive figure even for a waterway that has been in operation since 1914. From a military and economic standpoint, it is one of the United States' most prized assets.

The Canal, or the "Big Ditch"as is is popularly called, cuts through the Isthmus of Panama for 50 miles, linking the Atlantic with the Pacific. Bordering it, for a width of 10 miles, is the Canal Zone, over which the United States has complete sovereignity. The area was granted in perpetuity to the United States by the Republic of Panama for the specific purpose of construction, operation, maintenance and protection of the Canal. In it private enterprises are not permitted except those directly related to the waterway and its operation.

The Panama Canal is operated and regulated financially by the Panama Canal Co., a government corporation managed by a 13-member board of directors, appointed by the Secretary of the Army, acting as personal representative of the President. Income from tolls is used to operate the canal and to replace and enlarge its facilities.

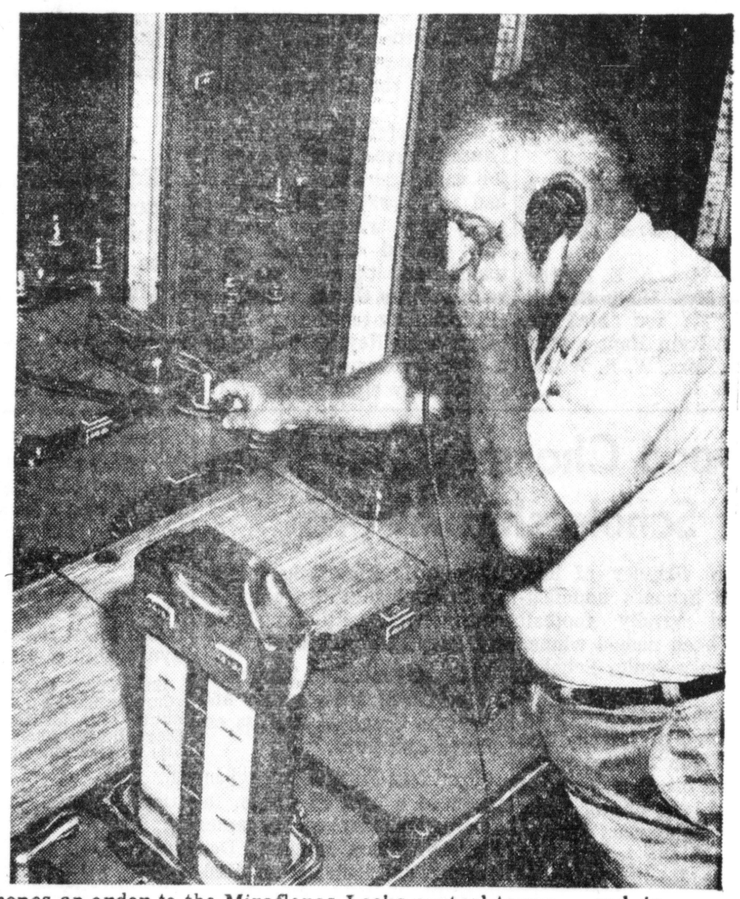
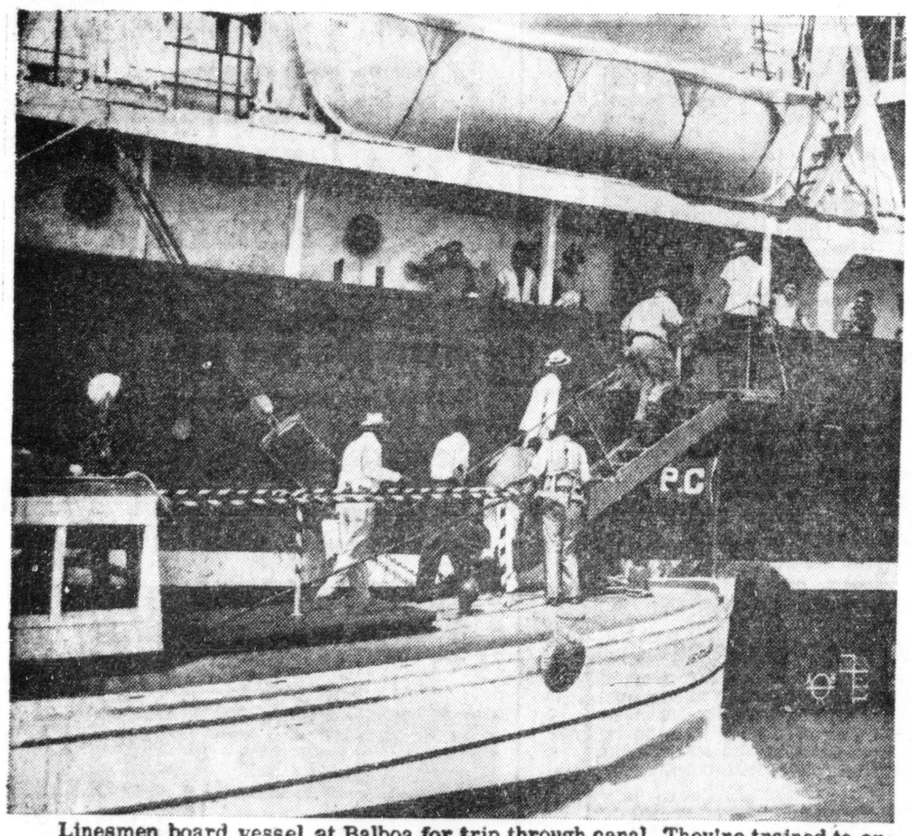
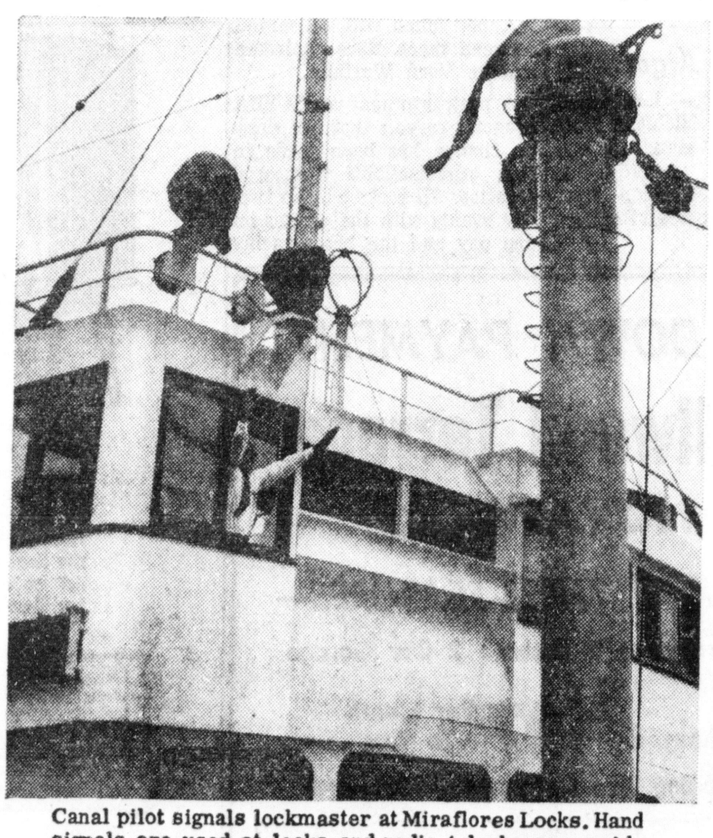
An electric cable car tows the 650-foot supertanker Allen D. Christensen into the Pedro Miguel Locks. The ship is from Monrovia, Liberia.



Lockmaster Richard Abel, on lock wall, phones an order to the Miraflores Locks control tower. . .and, in tower, Frank Dolan, control house operator, throws small switch to swing open the 750-ton gate leaves.



Linesmen board vessel at Balboa for trip through canal. They're trained to expedite handling of vessels by thorough knowledge of procedures and equipment used.



Canal pilot signals lockmaster at Miraflores Locks. Hand signals are used at locks and radio-telephones provide contact with port captains' offices in Balboa and Cristobal.

Security Patrolman Edward Michaelis checks visitor through the gates at Miraflores. Visitor areas are set aside where they can view Canal operations.

Man Attacked With No Warning

A silent assailant from a passing car attacked a 49-year-old Mill Valley man early today on the Highway 101 frontage road in Mill Valley, then jumped back into his car and drove off.

Gunnar Backalen of 75 Corte Madera avenue told the Marin County sheriff's office he was walking home from work as a dishwasher at the Ranch Wagon when he saw four men come out of a restaurant and get in a car.

The car stopped next to him, one man jumped out, and, saying nothing, struck Backalen twice in the face, breaking his glasses and making his nose bleed. Backalen could not identify the men.

'The Messiah' To Be Given Next Week

Portions of Handel's "The Messiah" will be presented a week from tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. by the chancel choir of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Perfomance will be given in the church's temporary quarters at the Boardwalk, Tiburon, and the public is invited.

David C. KortKamp, minister of music, has assembled four noted soloists to appear with the choir. They are Carleen Cheetham, soprano; Mary Olson, alto; Kenneth Smail, tenor, and Byron Jones, bass.

Miss Cheetham is director of music at the First Methodist Church of San Mateo, while Messrs. Small and Jones are soloists at St. Luke's Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

In preparation for the event, KortKamp will speak tomorrow morning at 9:30 on the meaning of Handel's composition.

"Although we associate it with Christmas," KortKamp says, "'The Messiah' is much more than a narrative of Christ's birth. It is the story of man's redemption through belief in Christ as Savior and Lord."

BEE IN BONNET, CYCLIST HAS TO SWEAT IT OUT

LONG BEACH, Calif., (AP)—Motorcycle officer James Kirby was doing 60 in heavy traffic when he got a bee in his bonnet.

The bee crawled under his helmet. He couldn't take the helmet off in traffic. Nor could he get to an outside lane of the Pacific Coast Highway with the promptness called for by the situation.

He sweated it out.

Ah, a filling station. He pulled in.

The bee sat down.

Kirby, 29, was treated at a hospital for a badly swollen right eyebrow.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 5th, the 339th day of the year, with 26 more days to follow in 1959.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

On this date in history:

In 1776, America's first scholastic fraternity—Phi Beta Kappa—was organized at the College of William and Mary.

In 1782, Martin Van Buren—the 8th president of the United States and first to be born an American citizen—was born.

In 1831, John Quincy Adams—a former president—took a seat in the House of Representatives.

In 1876, 289 persons died in a theater fire in Brooklyn.

In 1933, Utah became the 36th state to ratify the 21st Amendment, and prohibition came to an end.

A thought for today: American clergyman Charles Fletcher Dole said: "The Golden Rule works like gravitation."

Dramatization Of Marinite's Book To Be Presented

Authors of children's books seldom have the opportunity to see their books dramatized, but Laura Nelson Baker of Lagunitas will do so this month. Tomorrow, and again on Dec. 13 and 20, the Lamplighters of San Francisco will present matinee performances of "The Friendly Beasts," a Christmas story for young children, adapted by Mrs. Baker from an old carol.

The play will be presented at 2:30 p.m. on each of the three dates at the Lamplighter's theater at 236 McAllister street, San Francisco.

The book was illustrated by another Marin resident, Nicholas Sidjakov of Sausalito, whose illustrations put the book on the New York Times list of "the 10 best-illustrated" children's books for 1957. "The Friendly Beasts" was published by Parnassus Press of Berkeley.

Mrs. Baker has also written other books for young people, the latest of which are "The Special Year," published this fall by Alfred A. Knopf, and "Scannon, Dog With Lewis and Clark," co-authored with Adrien Stoutenburg and published last month by Charles Scribner's Sons.

Closing Urged For Parks, Muir Woods

Muir Woods Park Improvement Assn. passed a resolution last night requesting the closing of the Muir Woods National Monument, Mt. Tamalpais State Park and Stinson Beach State Park until the end of the dry spell.

Mildred Corbin, publicity chairman, said the resolution will be brought to the attention of Rep. Clement W. Miller and State Sen. John F. McCarthy next week.

Behind the resolution is the dropping of water level of the Lapuchet water tank that supplies the Throckmorton Ridge area, Miss Corbin said.

Five families living on the ridge were without water for three days last week.

The national monument draws water from Lapuchet she said, and until the rains come and refill the tank, every drop is needed for homes in the area.

Man Attacked With No Warning

A silent assailant from a passing car attacked a 49-year-old Mill Valley man early today on the Highway 101 frontage road in Mill Valley, then jumped back into his car and drove off.

Gunnar Backalen of 75 Corte Madera avenue told the Marin County sheriff's office he was walking home from work as a dishwasher at the Ranch Wagon when he saw four men come out of a restaurant and get in a car.

The car stopped next to him, one man jumped out, and, saying nothing, struck Backalen twice in the face, breaking his glasses and making his nose bleed. Backalen could not identify the men.

Navy Stages Combined Air-Sea Maneuvers

The Navy seaplane tender Salisbury Sound and Navy seaplanes completed a three-day small-scale combined air-and-sea operation on the waters of Drake's Bay Thursday.

The operation was a "routine" training exercise to give the tender and planes practice in working together. The Salisbury Sound, based in Alameda, is scheduled to leave soon for the western Pacific.

Chamber To Elect

Officers for 1960 will be elected by the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Western Restaurant, Point Reyes Station.

Industrialist Pays $300 Fine For Drunken Driving

San Rafael manufacturer John Rubin Hendrickson, 40, questioned in connection with a $4 million embezzlement in Long Beach, yesterday paid a $300 fine for drunken driving.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court also put Hendrickson on one year probation and suspended his driving privileges for 90 days.

Hendrickson was arrested Aug. 4 on Highway 101.

Another drunken driver drew a $200 fine, 10 months probation, and restricted driving for 90 days. He is Edward Henderson Everett, 45, of 39 Meadow drive, San Rafael, a telephone company employee. San Rafael police caught him on Lincoln avenue Nov. 20.

'The Messiah' To Be Given Next Week

Portions of Handel's "The Messiah" will be presented a week from tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. by the chancel choir of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Perfomance will be given in the church's temporary quarters at the Boardwalk, Tiburon, and the public is invited.

David C. KortKamp, minister of music, has assembled four noted soloists to appear with the choir. They are Carleen Cheetham, soprano; Mary Olson, alto; Kenneth Small, tenor, and Byron Jones, bass.

Miss Cheetham is director of music at the First Methodist Church of San Mateo, while Messrs. Small and Jones are soloists at St. Luke's Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

In preparation for the event, KortKamp will speak tomorrow morning at 9:30 on the meaning of Handel's composition.

"Although we associate it with Christmas," KortKamp says, "'The Messiah' is much more than a narrative of Christ's birth. It is the story of man's redemption through belief in Christ as Savior and Lord."

BEE IN BONNET, CYCLIST HAS TO SWEAT IT OUT

LONG BEACH, Calif., (AP)—Motorcycle officer James Kirby was doing 60 in heavy traffic when he got a bee in his bonnet.

The bee crawled under his helmet. He couldn't take the helmet off in traffic. Nor could he get to an outside lane of the Pacific Coast Highway with the promptness called for by the situation.

He sweated it out.

Ah, a filling station. He pulled in.

The bee sat down.

Kirby, 29, was treated at a hospital for a badly swollen right eyebrow.

Closing Urged For Parks, Muir Woods

Muir Woods Park Improvement Assn. passed a resolution last night requesting the closing of the Muir Woods National Monument, Mt. Tamalpais State Park and Stinson Beach State Park until the end of the dry spell.

Mildred Corbin, publicity chairman, said the resolution will be brought to the attention of Rep. Clement W. Miller and State Sen. John F. McCarthy next week.

Behind the resolution is the dropping of water level of the Lapuchet water tank that supplies the Throckmorton Ridge area, Miss Corbin said.

Five families living on the ridge were without water for three days last week.

The national monument draws water from Lapuchet she said, and until the rains come and refill the tank, every drop is needed for homes in the area.

Dramatization Of Marinite's Book To Be Presented

Authors of children's books seldom have the opportunity to see their books dramatized, but Laura Nelson Baker of Lagunitas will do so this month. Tomorrow, and again on Dec. 13 and 20, the Lamplighters of San Francisco will present matinee performances of "The Friendly Beasts," a Christmas story for young children, adapted by Mrs. Baker from an old carol.

The play will be presented at 2:30 p.m. on each of the three dates at the Lamplighter's theater at 236 McAllister street, San Francisco.

The book was illustrated by another Marin resident, Nicholas Sidjakov of Sausalito, whose illustrations put the book on the New York Times list of "the 10 best-illustrated" children's books for 1957. "The Friendly Beasts" was published by Parnassus Press of Berkeley.

Mrs. Baker has also written other books for young people, the latest of which are "The Special Year," published this fall by Alfred A. Knopf, and "Scannon, Dog With Lewis and Clark," co-authored with Adrien Stoutenburg and published last month by Charles Scribner's Sons.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 5th, the 339th day of the year, with 26 more days to follow in 1959.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

On this date in history:

In 1776, America's first scholastic fraternity—Phi Beta Kappa—was organized at the College of William and Mary.

In 1782, Martin Van Buren—the 8th president of the United States and first to be born an American citizen—was born.

In 1831, John Quincy Adams—a former president—took a seat in the House of Representatives.

In 1876, 289 persons died in a theater fire in Brooklyn.

In 1933, Utah became the 36th state to ratify the 21st Amendment, and prohibition came to an end.

A thought for today: American clergyman Charles Fletcher Dole said: "The Golden Rule works like gravitation."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J V K D O V U A A O K K K D K J P K D K —
W O U W U V.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: YET MALICE NEVER WAS HIS AIM; HE LASH'D THE VICE BUT SPAR'D THE NAME— SWIFT.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

JVKD OVUAA OKK KDK JP KDK—WOUWUV.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: YET MALICE NEVER WAS HIS AIM; HE LASH'D THE VICE BUT SPAR'D THE NAME—SWIFT.

To Sell This Sunday

Owner has asked us to quickly sell his expansive home, beautifully built, in this wooded but convenient setting. Rare construction features big rooms and nearly mansion like qualities. Basically the house has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths plus a completely private study-den. The living room has almost ballroom proportions, and the whole residence possesses quality and dignity. It's so unusual, so private, yet so close to all conveniences that we want you to see this recent listing at the reduced price of $25,500. Plenty of room for horses, pool or tennis court. We have a feeling you will make the "buy of your life" here!
Incidently, adjacent acreage near this level site is available rather reasonably.

Owner has asked us to quickly sell his expansive home, beautifully built, in this wooded but convenient setting. Rare construction features big rooms and nearly mansion like qualities. Basically the house has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths plus a completely private study-den. The living room has almost ballroom proportions, and the whole residence possesses quality and dignity. It's so unusual, so private, yet so close to all conveniences that we want you to see this recent listing at the reduced price of $25,500. Plenty of room for horses, pool or tennis court. We have a feeling you will make the "buy of your life" here!
Incidently, adjacent acreage near this level site is available rather reasonably.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Brown Raps Nixon

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown, himself mentioned as a potential 1960 presidential candidate, says neither of the top Republican hopefuls can guide the United States in a needed new direction.

Brown told a Harvard University forum last night that Vice President Nixon is not capable of the long-range effort necessary to lead a reorientation of U.S. society.

"I have observed my fellow Californian diligently for years," he said. "I recognize his qualities as a well-mended political windsock—but nothing is more temporary than the weather."

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Brown said, apparently believes "that the major tool of social and economic advance is a tax exemption—especially since the exemptions all seem to be designed for upper bracket taxpayers alone."

Flood Debris Probed

FREJUS, France (AP) — Five grim-faced government ministers today inspected the flood-stricken Reyran River Valley and stood silently at the cemetery where open graves await more victims of the Malpasset Dam disaster.

The helicopters bringing in the top-level investigators from Paris landed shortly after weary rescue workers began their third day of probing in silt and debris for those still missing.

Official figures list 221 dead and 80 to 90 missing.

Johnson Boosted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Earle C. Clements of Kentucky is quitting as Democratic senatorial campaign director to boost the presidential chances of Sen. Lyndon B.Johnson (D-Tex.).

Clements' decision to resign his $25,000-a-year post is generally interpreted here as signalling the start of an intensive campaign to line up convention support for Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader.

Pilot Age Limit Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—Starting March 15, airline pilots must quit flying at the age of 60, by order of the Federal Aviation Agency. At present there is no age limit.

The Airline Pilots Assn. attacked the agency's order yesterday as "whimsical and capricious." It said there was no shred of evidence to justify such a rule and added it would fight the order in federal courts.

However, the Air Transport Assn., an industry group, said the age limit is "reasonable and judicious."

Unification Rapped

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The newly organized California Small School Districts Assn., took issue today with the state school district unification plan.

The association says the plan threatens the extinction as separate entities of 1,200 of the state's 1,716 school districts.

"Small schools graduate better students," said Carlyle T. Benson, Angwin contractor and newly elected president of the association.

Heroic Pilot Dies

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A heroic pilot stayed with his crashing jet fighter yesterday and barely missed hitting a school filled with 1,000 children.

The flier, killed in the crash, was Ens. Albert Joe Hickman, 21, Sioux City, Iowa.

Witnesses said they saw Hickman waving frantically at children who were eating on the playground, as though to warn them to run.

"The plane came in about 100 feet above the school grounds," C. L. Bateman, a resident, said. "Just when it seemed the plane would smash into the school he lifted its nose just enough to clear the playground."

Insecticide Fatal

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bobby Joe Love, 16, died here yesterday after he drank from a hose coated with a poisonous insecticide.

Bomb Victim Dies

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—An officer injured when a bomb went off outside a theater where the mayor was being inaugurated last Tuesday died yesterday.

The victim was Maurillo Rodriguez Reyes, 23, an auxiliary policeman.

Police believe the bomb was intended for Baja California Gov. Eligio Esquivel, who at the last minute decided not to attend the inauguration of Mayor Aleman.

Russ Cover Ike's Trip

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet newspapers and radio are giving extensive coverage to President Eisenhower's visit to Italy.

Russia, U.S. Agree

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union and the United States are jointly sponsoring a U.N. resolution—to hold down the expenses of the United Nations.

It asks U.N. organs to try to avoid adding new projects to each year's budget after the budget is prepared. Other sponsors were Britain and the United Arab Republic.

Of the U.N.'s yearly budget of 60 million dollars or so, the United States is assessed 32.51 per cent, the Soviet Union 13.62 per cent, Britain 7.78 per cent and the U.A.R. 0.32 per cent.

Yule Party Slated

The Marin Barracks of Veterans of World War I and its auxiliary will hold a potluck dinner and Christmas party at 7 p.m., Dec. 17, at Painters' Hall, San Rafael.

'Hall Of Fame' Adds 3 Early Day Editors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three crusading early day editors have been entered in the California Newspaper Hall of Fame.

The addition of James McClatchy of the Sacramento Bee, Lauren Upson of the Sacramento Union and John Nugent of the old San Francisco Herald brought the number of those so honored to 10.

The editors were chosen from 18 nominees who played influential roles in the development of California prior to 1880. Announcement of the selections was made last night at a dinner session of the California Press Assn.

President of the association is Justus F. Craemer of Kent Woodlands, co-owner of the Independent-Journal.

The 15-man awards committee, headed by publisher Joseph R. Knowland of the Oakland Tribune, has decided to consider nominess influential as late as 1890 in next year's selection.

The California State Library at Sacramento will be the permanent repository for the hall of fame.

The citations made these observations:

James McClatchy, 1824-1883, "fighting editor for what he believed to be the right and truth in many fields, crusader cum laude, creator of a newspaper empire that has left his permanent mark upon California journalism.

The award cited his fights against slavery, land monopoly, stream pollution, bossism and graft, and for the direct primary for president and U.S. senator.

Lauren Upson, 1807-1875, was described as "the major voice in California from 1853 until his retirement in 1864."

Upson campaigned effectively for public schools, libraries, a state fair, flood control, a state mint and Sacramento as state capital.

John Nugent, 1829-1880, a "firebrand crusader, awkward pistol shot," and editor who "fought and bled and would have died for freedom of the press and good government."

Nugent's San Francisco Herald folded in 1856, after only a six-year existence, partly because of its editor's unyielding devotion to his convictions about good government and freedom of the press.

Nugent fought two shooting duels with aldermen, and was wounded twice, over editorials he had written. His firm stand taken against the Vigilantes when that group turned to mob rule brought the paper's downfall.

When Nugent pressed for dissolution of the Vigilantes, 200 merchants boycotted his newspaper, advertised in other newspapers, urging others to do likewise. Readers canceled subscriptions and crowds boycotted the Herald and burned it.

11 In Race To Succeed Long As Governor

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — About 800,000 Louisianans were expected to vote today on a successor to the state's fiery Gov. Earl K. Long.

Eleven candidates — an all-time record — seek the governorship in the first Democratic primary, which also will nominate other top state officials, a new legislature and hundreds of local officeholders. In Louisiana the Democratic nomination amounts to election.

Five of the candidates for governor are seasoned campaigners.

Politicians and public samplings show two are most likely to enter a runoff Jan. 9 unless one candidate sweeps to victory. They are New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, 47, and former Gov. Jimmie Davis, 53, both promising cleaner, more responsible leadership in the state.

Much campaign pressure has built up for a fresh political outlook, after the shock wave of the 64-year-old governor's confinement in two mental hospitals last summer.

American Legion Cuts Ties With 40-8 Over Race Ban

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — "We have no quarrels with the American Legion," says John Hobble of Liberal, Kan., chief of the 40 et 8 Society.

That was his reply last night when asked to comment on the American Legion's action in cutting its ties with the fun-making 40 et 8 in a dispute over racial membership restrictions.

The parent Legion and the 40 et 8 have been arguing for years over a 40 et 8 rule limiting membership to whites. The Legion itself has no racial bars on membership.

Martin McKneally, national commander of the Legion, announced in Indianapolis yesterday that from now on the 40 et 8 will be forbidden to use the American Legion name or its emblem in any connection.

As for the word "white" in the membership requirement of his organization, Hobble said:

"I have no right to change the constitution because we believe in the democratic process. Only the delegates can do that."

Family Day Slated

Officers and men of the 91st Training Division of the United States Army Reserve will hold a family day tomorrow from 3 to 5 p.m. at the San Francisco Presidio, announced Lt. Col. William R. Davis of San Anselmo, operations and training officer.

IN NEXT WEEK'S MAGAZINE—

YOUR MARIN Magazine will tell the story next week of a "made in Marin" television program. It's a crime story, but far different from today's usual "private eye" TV yarn. Its aim: To show the public how our law enforcement and court systems work toward ultimate justice in a criminal case. It's based on factual Marin history with a Marin scene. And with Marinites playing major roles in its production.

MARIN ET CETERA

By Harry Craft

Marinite Refuses To Be Beaten By Even Most Dreaded Adversary

JUST a year ago in this column I told of Paul McArdle's battle with throat cancer and the operation which removed his larnyx. Unable to speak he had returned to his post at Buon Gusto Villa. Pencil and paper, the gestures of his hands and facial expressions were his only means of communication.

For a man who had always loved to tell stories and exchange gibes with the customers it was grim and cruel irony. But the continued air of good nature he showed the world was sincere. He was glad to be there alive. Eleanor, his wife, was thankful. So was Paula, their daughter.

So now, a year later and the week Thanksgiving—the same as when my last article appeared—it seems appropriate to add a postscript.

I knew that Paul had gone to school to learn to speak again—certainly not an easy thing without vocal chords to set in vibration, only a column of air to force up from his lungs and mold into words with his lips. I had met him from time to time and the progress seemed slow. I wondered if all of us hadn't been too hopeful. It was an effort for him to form syllables and I, as did many others, strained my ears to catch each muffled sound.

THEN ABOUT six months ago I ran into him in San Rafael and we stopped to talk. Yes, he actually did speak and I understood every word in spite of traffic and street noises.

It was some time later that my wife and I dropped in the Buon Gusto for a nightcap, and the place was crowded with diners. The noise competition was too much and his words were lost in the babble. It was a disappointment.

Only a few nights ago did my optimism rise again. Fortunately it was still early for the customary Saturday night gathering and we had time to sit and chat without counterpoint. The best part of it was that he showed no reluctance to discuss his problem. There was no embarrassment in talking about it openly.

"It's amazing," I said. "How come there's such an improvement?"

He took a sip of carbonated water before replying. It stimulates the reverse flow of air needed to form his words.

"YOU SHOULD have heard me last night," he commented. "I was talking all over the place. It was all they could do to shut me up."

"Again—how come?"

"Depends on how relaxed I am. On this job I can't always be that way."

His tones were almost sepulchral at times, a contrast to the amusement in his face.

"Say, did you hear the story about the guy . . . ?" he asked, and went on to tell the latest humoresque making the rounds. It was a good story and we laughed. The people next to us were listening and they laughed, too.

But our laughter stemmed from something more than the climax of the story. If it hadn't been that funny we still would have enjoyed it. We felt good that he could tell a story once more. It was heart-warming.

"You're closing over Thanksgiving again this year," I commented.

"Yes—but not for the same reason. This time we're going away for a holiday—all three of us. Last year I was pretty close to death's door — we didn't know what might happen as a result of the operation."

WE NODDED in sober agreement.

"Well, don't look so serious about it," he grimaced. "There are still more people dying today who never died before."

How can you keep a guy like that down—I ask you?

Dr. Harry Recalls Horse And Buggy Days

Marin Physician Followed In The Footsteps Of His Father

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The days when a doctor drove his horse and buggy miles over the hills to take care of the sick and deliver babies are recalled vividly by a veteran in the medical profession, Dr. Harry O. Hund of San Rafael.

"We carried all our equipment, sterilizers, everything, with us. Often we sat up all night waiting for the baby to arrive."

And the fee? "For obstetrics, the charge was $25. House calls were $2.50 and office calls $2."

And what would the surgeon's fee be for such an operation as an appendectomy? "That ranged between $150 and $200." Chloroform was generally the anesthetic, the doctor said.

He spoke of the improvements in surgical techniques. However, he remembers several cases in "the old days" which he termed miraculous. Dr. Hund said that one of his patients, who suffered 11 perforations of the bowels and stomach in a revolver accident, made a complete recovery.

THE SAN RAFAEL doctor became interested early in life in the practice of medicine and desirous of following in the footsteps of his father, Dr. Frederick J. Hund. The latter, born in Homberg, Hessen Cassel, Germany, in 1858, was the son of Henry Hund, a teacher in the seminary for the education of teachers in Homberg, who died in 1864. When Frederick was 13 he came to New York and made his home with an uncle, Dr. John Frederick. With his uncle's encouragement the youth commenced the study of medicine and he was graduated from the medical department of the University of New York City in 1879, after a full course of two years, receiving the degree of doctor of medicine. He had already passed the examination as assistant pharmacist before the Board of Pharmacy of New York City, and he commenced the practice of medicine at College Point, Long Island, where he remained for a year. During that time he became connected with the Northwestern Dispensary of New York City, returning to that city in 1880.

Two years later the young doctor came to California and engaged in the practice of medicine in San Francisco and he became a member of the San Francisco Medical Benevolent Society.

Dr. Harry Hund remembers his father told him of performing operations in the homes. He was also a consultant at the German Hospital, now Franklin Hospital.

In 1884 Dr. Frederick Hund married Carrie Zech at the San Francisco home of her parents. Her father, Jacob Zech, a native of Germany, was the first piano manufacturer in San Francisco. He made square, grand and upright pianos, which graced the homes of California's millionaires. Three of the grands were in the Palace Hotel, and were destroyed by the fire and earthquake of 1906.

HARRY HUND, first child of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Hund, was born in 1885. His brother, Fred, was born in 1886, his brother, Walter, in 1887 and the third brother, Erwin, in 1889. One sister, Irene, now Mrs. Lawrence Nichol, resides in Berkeley.

In 1907 Dr. Frederick Hund built El Recreo sanitarium on Laurel Grove Avenue in Ross. For many years he operated it and it was an outstanding institution.

The sanitarium, on a five-acre site, had beds for 25 patients. In a separate building contagious cases were given care. Also at the sanitarium a completely equipped laboratory for pathological and chemical research was maintained.

Two of the sons of the doctor, Fred and Walter, took charge of the laboratory after they completed their college education. Both were chemists. Fred, a research chemist and pharmacist, later became president of the chemical department of the Shell Oil Co. The fourth son, Erwin, became a doctor and practiced in Reno. Both he and Walter are now deceased. Fred lives in San Francisco.

Harry, the oldest son, attended Lincoln Grammar School and California School of Mechanical Arts (Lick) in San Francisco and took a premedical course at the University of California. He then enrolled at the University of Pennsylvania and received the M.D. Degree on June 3, 1911.

SON OF A PHYSICIAN, Harry O. Hund also chose a medical career for himself. And he has never regretted it. His service to the sick covers a span from 1911 when he received his medical degree until the present as he continues his practice of medicine with an office in San Rafael. He recalls vividly the days when the physician depended upon the horse and buggy for transportation. And he tells something of those times in the story appearing on this and the next page. There's Variety in Velvets This Fall

Velvets makes a strong showing in the fall and winter fashions. The romanticism of the fabric is enhanced by the new silhouette—small waistlines, big sleeves, the straight, long, narrow evening dress. They run the gamut of brilliant colors to black, plus multicolored prints.

Fast-pile velvets are available with or without a silicone finish for coats, suits, and dresses. A rayon Lyons-type velvet is available with a special finish to give it resiliency.

Frapped or crushed velvets are making a comeback after an absence of many years. An exciting fabric this fall is the screen-printed velvet with a crush-resistant finish and fast pile.

The printed fabrics are being used for that "important dress" for afternoon or evening wear. Designs range from two-tone effects to multi-colored designs on black or white backgrounds. Realistic or abstract designs on a moired ground create a new and unusual effect.

In addition to the big collection of novelty velvets from France, there are plenty of domestic novelties, the most important being the sculptured series.

Velvet is truly a drycleanable fabric, says the National Institute of Drycleaning, but the novelty velvets require special care in wear and in drycleaning.

Protect your velvet garment from lint by keeping it in a garment bag. There are many new devices for removing lint which may be purchased at the notions counter of your favorite department store. If you are a "do-it-yourself" type, place a piece of adhesive tape, sticky side out, over a small wooden block, or the palm of your hand and brush the surface of the fabric lightly to remove the lint.

Robin Hood Wouldn't Stand Chance Against Today's Archer

By DON KEOWN

Television and the movies to the contrary, Robin Hood with his long bow wouldn't stand much of a chance in competition with today's expert archer and his smaller, lighter and better bow.

You can take the word of one of those modern-day experts, Larry Petretti of San Anselmo, for that.

Petretti says there is no argument but that the bow used today is more accurate and faster.

But, more surprising, today's bow also shoots further. Witness the world's record—927 yards. That is more than nine times the length of a football field. And it was shot with one of today's 54-inch bows, not with the fabled weapon of the Robin Hood era.

Yes, says Petretti, the old long bow is gone forever. And so is the bow and arrow as a weapon of conflict. But as a sport, archery, he asserts, is just on the threshhold of a tremendous boom in popularity.

ALREADY, he points out, archery ranks as this country's 11th most popular participant sport. And it is gaining rapidly on the No. 10 sport, golf.

An estimated four million plus Americans now get their kicks out of firing away at a target — or even wild game—with a bow and arrow. The figure has tripled in a brief five-year span.

An increasing percentage of those archers, Petretti notes, comes from the ranks of our younger set.

Petretti, himself, is playing a major role in making sure that his favorite sport catches fire with the boys and girls of Marin County.

In 1958 Petretti enjoyed a highly successful year in competitive shooting. He won the state small game championship, the Marin county target championship, the Northern California small game championship, and the Marin County small game championship.

BUT THIS year he has withdrawn from the competitive ranks to concentrate upon instructing others in the proper handling of the bow and arrow. And his interest has been focussed upon the teenagers and sub-teens.

Each Saturday Petretti conducts an archery class for boys and girls, ages 9 through 15 inclusive, at Albert Park in San Rafael. In the summer the course is sponsored by the San Rafael City Recreation Department, in the winter by the San Rafael Sporting Goods store where Petretti works.

Petretti says his aim is twofold:

1. First and foremost, to interest more youngsters in what he regards as a wholesome and completely enjoyable sport.

2. And to develop future champions from the ranks of his young Marin proteges.

He has already had great success in that first aspiration, and one "bulls-eye" in his second goal.

One of his students, Donald Graham, 11, walked off with the Marin County junior archery championship just a month ago.

To further interest in archery among the younger Marinites, Petretti is currently spearheading a movement to form a Marin County Junior Archery Club. An organizational meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Marin Junior Museum.

THE CLUB, Petretti says, will be open to all boys and girls in the 9 to 15 inclusive age bracket who are interested in archery.

Plans call for the boys and girls to elect their own officers, plan their own programs and have their own facilities including a range. Petretti and some fellow archery enthusiasts will assume the responsibility of providing adult guidance and supervision.

Meetings will be scheduled at an early hour so that the young members can get home early.

Petretti urges all boys and girls already interested in archery or who feel that they would like to take up the sport to be sure and show up for the organizational meeting.

It will mark the county's first junior bow and arrow club, although a senior group, the Northwoods Bowman Club is already extremely active in the field.

Petretti himself did not have the advantage of an early start or training in archery.

He was in his early 20s when he was first introduced to the bow and arrow. He remembers the occasion well.

set his folks had just bought him, and asked me to help him shoot it," he says. "I didn't know a thing about it, but I worked with him on it. And I became so interested in it that I took up archery myself."

FORTUNATELY Petretti's late start did not prove to be too much of a handicap as he proved to be a natural for competitive shooting. But the Marin champ remains fully convinced that the best and only way to develop top shooters is to start them out early.

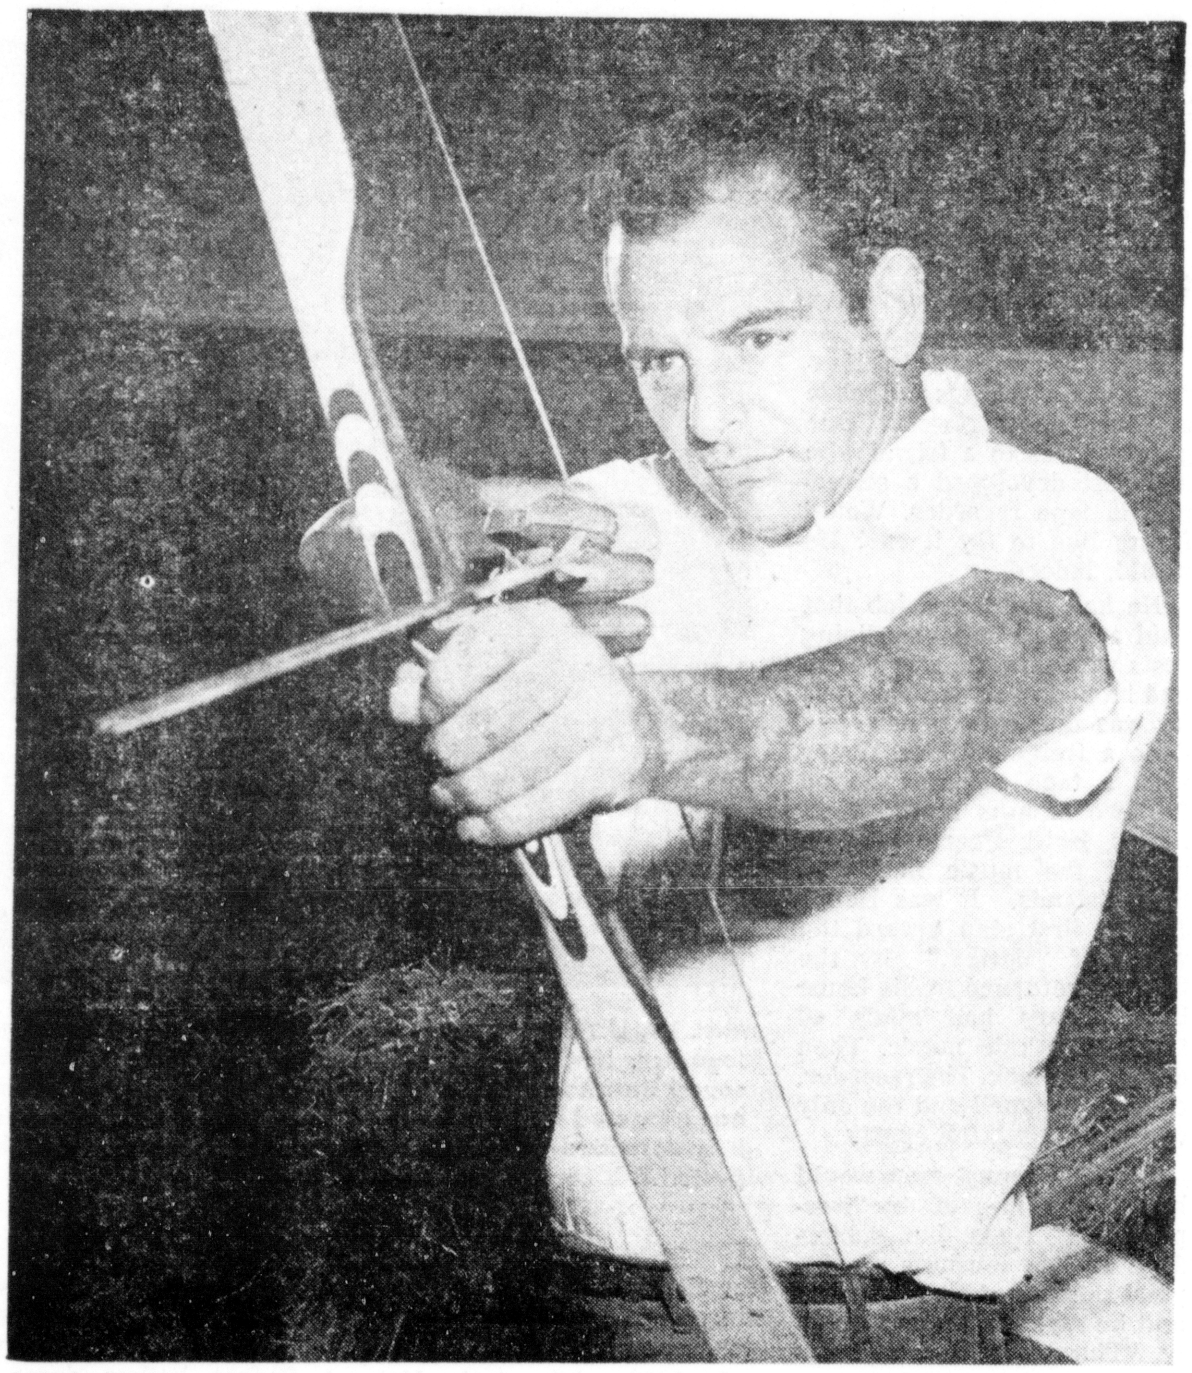
And that is just what he is attempting to do with his classes at Albert Park, his junior club proposal, and an exhibition team which he heads up as still another means of stimulating interest in the sport.

Petretti, apparently, won't be satisfied until the air is full of arrows (Figuratively speaking, of course).

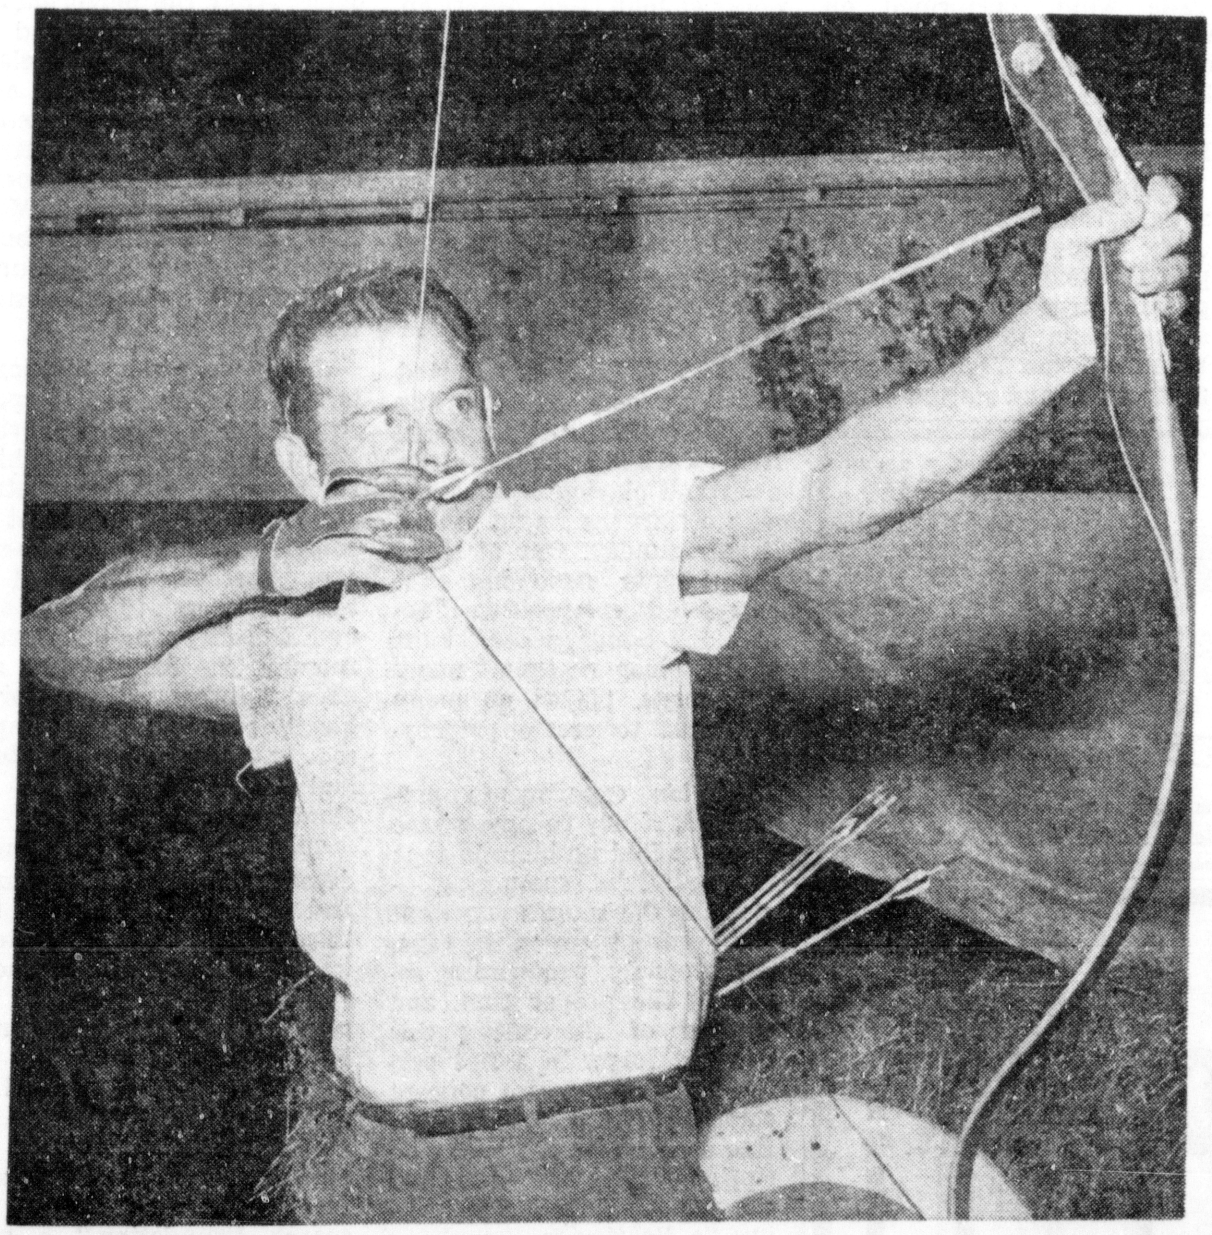
"We think we are riding the crest of the archery boom right now," he says. "But I am convinced that the trend is just in its infancy. I think there is no limit to the heights of popularity which archery may hit in the next few years. It's a sport that doesn't require costly equipment or great strength. And there is that same satisfaction from sending an arrow into the heart of the bulls-eye that the bowler experiences from a strike or a golfer gains from a birdie."

CERTAINLY IN Marin the next few years seem a cinch to produce a host of young marksmen whose accuracy with the bow and arrow would have astounded Robin Hood and his merry men of Sherwood forest fame.

And a lot of credit for their performances will very properly go to Petretti and his fellow adult enthusiasts who have spread the word and taught the techniques that produce such future champions.



HERE COMPETITIVE archery champion Larry Petretti, using a target bow of laminated glass and maple, demonstrates the proper technique for nocking the arrow. The bow has the advantage of light weight while retaining the necessary strength.



AND HERE'S ANOTHER photo depicting championship archery from. Larry Petretti is about to release his arrow and send it winging on its way toward the target.

Vortex — Music And Electronics

It's Serious Art Form With Marin Man Who Created It

By MILDRED HOWIE

If you have experienced "Vortex" or attended the new "Vortex Presents" concert of electronic music, you might be one of the many who came away asking, "What manner of person created sounds like that."

If you are a reader of Time Magazine, you have met, through the printed page, the two men responsible, Henry Jacobs and Jordan Belson, and through Time's "ho-ho-ho" attitude assumed that these men were not too serious in what they were doing and therefore the whole process was something of a schoolboy lark or momentary whim. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Mill Valleyite Henry Jacobs, father, lover and motivational force behind "Vortex," is a man as placid as the Buddha sitting on a low mosaic table in his living room — and as restless as the stately Burmese cat who stalks up and down the hall. But Henry's restlessness is an intellectual one and as he sits in the corner of his home devoted to his music, his writing and his communications with the muse, you become increasingly aware that his life, mundane as it reads, leads inevitably to sound and experiments in sound. You haven't known Henry very long before you are aware that he is forever listening—and hearing —music the rest of the world misses, and his music, combined with light patterns, performed in space, is Vortex.

LIFE BEGAN for Henry Jacobs in the maternity ward of a Chicago hospital. He had what he refers to as "a lot of education," including attendance at Rawlins College and the University of Chicago before the familiar call from Uncle Sam put Henry into Air Force uniform and sent him aloft for two war years.

On his return Henry heard about a thing called "television" and served a two-year apprenticeship the hard way —writing, producing and directing television programs from the first commercial station in Latin America, all in Spanish.

Eventually Henry found his way to San Francisco for a vacation, having picked up some more television experience and an M.A. degree at the University of Illinois in the meantime. Like so many visitors, Henry said that if he could find a job he'd certainly like to stay in San Francisco, and the fates were listening. A position with the United Crusade was to be available in February and, if he wanted it, he could have it. Henry wanted it.

Back among the Illini Henry packed his things and made a round of farewells. One goodbye was to a friend who had just developed a stereophonic tape recorder. Would Henry like to try it out? He would, indeed.

He had just left a job that paid a good salary, his living costs were low, he was single, and he had two months before he was due on his new job. Onto a freighter piled Henry with a tape machine bound for two months in the West Indies, Haiti, Puerto Rico, to record the music native to these islands. It was Henry Jacobs' first step toward the world of "Vortex." By the time he returned to his home base, Henry had made 40 tapes of ethnic music. Then distaster struck. The recorder, custom designed and the only one of its kind, fell apart.

A LESS honest man would bewail the loss of 40 "irreplaceable" reels, but subterfuge and deviousness are beyond the ken of Henry Jacobs and he says simply and quietly, "There wasn't really anything very important on any of them." Undoubtedly he is right, but those days and nights and weeks of absorbing music as spontaneous as a trade wind, performed on whatever was at hand that could be strummed, rapped, beaten or shook, stayed as an important basic in the future Henry was building.

Musically Henry Jacobs has a background like many another young man. He studied piano, switched to piccolo, and played trumpet with the school band in high school. When he was 17 he stopped performing and started listening with a distinct preference for classical, jazz and the music of India with its chimes, gongs and cymbals.

MILL VALLEY'S Henry Jacobs and electronics equipment go together. He is the creator of Vortex, an experiment in sound that has become an accepted new music form and has triggered the formation of a new school of composers. It is described as music in space combined with light patterns.

In 1952, while at the University of Illinois, Henry attended a Festival of Contemporary music and there met and became familiar with the works of John Cage, American composer who performed an example of Musique Concrete, sound tape experiments created in France. One number featured the rotation of sound in space—and thus Henry Jacobs discovered a new dimension for music, which removed it from the level of conventional music, which in his words is "space bound."

THAT YEAR Henry started his own experiments creating sounds, often coming home from work on Friday afternoon and playing tapes until, with a start, he would realize it was Sunday. Out of these experiments came his first completed composition "Sonata for Loudspeaker," built out of "loop rhythms" many tape loops, played on many machines to create polyrhythms.

As his experiments progressed, Henry became aware of a two-fold problem in tape "music": first, composing — creating the sounds you want and getting them on the tape, and secondly, performing, selecting the proper time and method of showcasing this new art form. In a flat performance, the entire concept could be lost, and even in a fine studio with the best tape equipment Henry describes the effect as similar to hearing "a Beethoven Symphony played on the harmonica."

In 1956, Henry Jacobs and his friend and associate, Jordan Belson, attended a show at the Morrison Planetarium in San Francisco. Here, under a 60-foot hollow dome, Jacobs found himself surrounded by sound reaching him from 36 speakers placed around the perimeter of the dome. After the performance Henry and Belson asked if they might examine the elaborate playback system and then talked the director, George Bunton, into letting them perform an experiment with tape music. In May, 1957, using a specially built console to control the sound, the first "Vortex" demonstration was presented.

Cards were sent to Planetarium members and to sponsors of the listener-supported FM station KPFA, with which Henry was then associated, announcing an experiment in sound. When the doors closed every seat was filled and attendees enough to form a second capacity audience were roaming the halls of the science building waiting for a hastily scheduled, impromptu second performance. "Vortex" had arrived and was an instant success.

That fall a second "sound demonstration" was prepared and presented, and by the third presentation "Vortex" was doing turn-away business.

AS "VORTEX" gained in popularity, Henry Jacobs' role became more demanding, until finally he was forced to leave his job at KPFA, and devote full-time to his audio- experiment. To this end Jacobs formed the "Audio-Visual Research Foundation," a nonprofit organization dedicated

THAT YEAR Henry started his own experiments creating sounds, often coming home from work on Friday afternoon and playing tapes until, with a start, he would realize it was Sunday. Out of these experiments came his first completed composition "Sonata for Loudspeaker," built out of "loop rhythms" many tape loops, played on many machines to create polyrhythms.

As his experiments progressed, Henry became aware of a two-fold problem in tape "music": first, composing — creating the sounds you want and getting them on the tape, and secondly, performing, selecting the proper time and method of showcasing this new art form. In a flat performance, the entire concept could be lost, and even in a fine studio with the best tape equipment Henry describes the effect as similar to hearing "a Beethoven Symphony played on the harmonica."

In 1956, Henry Jacobs and his friend and associate, Jordan Belson, attended a show at the Morrison Planetarium in San Francisco. Here, under a 60-foot hollow dome, Jacobs found himself surrounded by sound reaching him from 36 speakers placed around the perimeter of the dome. After the performance Henry and Belson asked if they might examine the elaborate playback system and then talked the director, George Bunton, into letting them perform an experiment with tape music. In May, 1957, using a specially built console to control the sound, the first "Vortex" demonstration was presented.

Cards were sent to Planetarium members and to sponsors of the listener-supported FM station KPFA, with which Henry was then associated, announcing an experiment in sound. When the doors closed every seat was filled and attendees enough to form a second capacity audience were roaming the halls of the science building waiting for a hastily scheduled, impromptu second performance. "Vortex" had arrived and was an instant success.

That fall a second "sound demonstration" was prepared and presented, and by the third presentation "Vortex" was doing turn-away business.

AS "VORTEX" gained in popularity, Henry Jacobs' role became more demanding, until finally he was forced to leave his job at KPFA, and devote full-time to his audio- experiment. To this end Jacobs formed the "Audio-Visual Research Foundation," a nonprofit organization dedicated to research in the audio and visual fields as well as audio-visual.

A center has been set up in Sausalito and a group of composers in the new medium is mushrooming around the Bay Area. At the present time there are four composer of note — at least five others whose dabblings will lead eventually to recognition in the field of electronic music.

The term "music," though used, is to Jacobs' way of thinking, an inappropriate one. This feeling led to the selection of the word "Vortex" to identify what was being attempted in those first demonstrations of sound and light patterns performed in space.

"We didn't want to create any problems with people," says Henry. "So often they come to us and say, 'It's fine, but is it music?' Technically, the answer is 'no.' There are a lot of dimensions in Vortex which have nothing in common with music. Music, as most people know it has harmony, certain kinds of rhythmic possibilities, a tempered scale. A lot of our works doesn't fit any of these standard perimeters."

And how does a composer work in this new field?

"SOMETIMES," Henry explains, "I produce material to work with purposely, freely, spontaneously and it grows. In other instances I arrange sound patterns to a set need—to go with a dance, or fit into a composition that must be a certain length for a certain use, then the form is carefully planned." Both systems of composition are in use all over the world.

Some composers of electronic music know lots about music, little about mechanics. These men are mainly found in the group working in West Germany radio at Cologne. They are going to great lengths to develop techniques of notation.

"There is reason to question the value of notation," Henry believes. "The main purpose of creating a written form is to set down compositions so someone else can play the piece.In electronics the important thing is getting the sound on tape—then duplication is simply made by copying the completed tape."

To the people who are not in tune with the vibrations of electronic music, it is easy to believe Henry Jacobs and his contemporaries are a rare breed of bird. In actuality, there are centers of electronic music in Paris, Milan, Tokyo and New York. The Rockefeller Foundation has recently made a grant of $175,000 to Columbia University to set up an electronic music center. And Vortex has gone to the Brussels World Fair at the express invitation of Herman Scherchen, one of Europe's top conductors and through some last minute support in the form of financial aid from the May T. Morrison trust fund.

SINCE JACOBS had always presented Vortex at the Morrison Planetarium, one of the problems at Brussels was finding a suitable domed building for its presentation. However, luck was with the little band of creators, when the Brussels Planetarium proved to be nearly ideal.

Though this mechanical detail was a problem, it became, too, a challenge and brought with it a giant step forward. Touring other sound centers Jacobs became increasingly aware he could not restrict this new art by concrete limits, and he and his associate, Jordan Belson, set about finding methods of presenting their abstract audio-visual syntheses in other surroundings, and to create an impressive demonstration in more readily available facilities — such as the auditorium at the Museum of Art in San Francisco, where two concerts were presented each Saturday and Sunday night for several recent weekends. Thus, in the new location and using an exclusive and complex sound system "Vortex Presents" was the next moving on in sound.

From the dissertation on sound and sound patterns, one would envision Jacobs as a dedicated, and somewhat less than human sounding board. Quite the contrary. Jacobs is a lean man of medium height and build who exudes warmth and human understanding at first meeting. And far from being a machine, Henry is the true romantic who fell in love at first sight with the lovely Sumire Hasegawa, daughter of Sabro Hasegawa, noted Oriental philosopher, calligrapher and artist.

IN CONFERENCE and deep in some very earnest talk about their future plans for their brainchild, Vortex, are Jordan Belson, left, and Henry Jacobs.

Henry and Sumi first met at a private concert at the Academy of Asian Studies where Professor Hasegawa was an instructor. A month later a mutual friend and matchmaker invited Sumi to a party and asked Henry if he'd be good enough to pick her up and drive her to the affair. Two months later they were married.

THEIR HOME is an unprepossessing house on stilts in Mill Valley, which they obtained through a trade with a bachelor friend who envied their small studio on Telegraph Hill. On the back of the lot is a small cabin, new empty, which once housed the main character in the Jack Kerouac novel, "Dharma Bums."

Sumi, called an "egghead" in a recent Look Magazine article, has recorded an album of Haiku, Japanese poetry, and an album on Zen with Alan Watts, also of Mill Valley.

As for the future, Henry looks forward to composing the work he'll be most satisfied with—"the one I'll do next year" — and Sumi contemplates that the next work may well be an electronic lullaby for the new sound expected to arrive simultaneously with the jingle of old St. Nick's sleighbell.

Marin's Late Autumn Beauty Lures Photographers

Mother Nature Has Staged One Of Her Most Colorful Spectacles

Marin in the late fall is always a photographer's paradise. And this has been especially true this year. The foliage of its trees, the grasses of its meadows and nature in general have gone all-out to stage a spectacular show of many hues.

Like so many of his camera-carrying brethren, Independent - Journal photographer Bob Hax was unable to resist this challenge. So he grabbed his equipment and set out to attempt to capture some of the breath-taking autumnal beauty.

How well he succeeded can be seen from the color photo appearing on the cover of this issue of the Marin Magazine—and from black and white pictures appearing on this and the facing page.

Hax's route took him through the San Geronimo Valley where he took his first shots. Some more picture subjects brought him to a halt west of Lagunitas. He took still more at the entry to Samuel P. Taylor State Park and in the vicinity of the park.

From there he went to Tocaloma for still some more pictures. A short ride up the Petaluma road yielded some peaceful pastoral scenes. And after some more picture-taking at Nicasio he returned to his starting point.

Nature's 1959 fall show won't last much longer. But photographer Hax has some pictures which will record it permanently for him. And he is sharing them here with you.

AT THE WHEEL of his early Maxwell, Dr. Harry O. Hund was photographed as a young doctor. With him was his brother, Fred, now a resident of San Francisco. Dr. Harry recalls that he found the Maxwell a vast improvement over the horse and buggy his physician-father had relied upon for transportation while making his rounds.

his father at the sanitarium. He also engaged in private practice with offices in the Cheda Building, San Rafael. In December of 1912 Dr. Harry Hund was married to Louise M. Hoschke in Brooklyn, N.Y. A graduate of Adelphi Academy and College, Long Island, and member of Delta Gamma sorority, she did post graduate work at Columbia University. Mrs. Hund has always interested herself in the career of her husband and is a past president of the Women's Auxiliary of the California Medical Assn. They have a daughter, Mrs. Fred L. White (Marie Hund) of Reno, who is the mother of Georgia Louise Teskey.

Dr. Harry Hund says that in his first year of practice he delivered triplets. He speaks, too, of the cases of diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid and small pox, now rare, but which he encountered in his early practice. The influenza epidemic of 1917 and 1918 kept Dr. Hund and the other 28 doctors in the county working night and day. He said he cared for flu victims from Bolinas and Pt. Reyes to Sausalito and Novato, and the fatality rate was low.

Dr. Harry Hund was associated with his father at the sanitarium until 1922 when the senior doctor retired and he and his wife moved to Freestone. The sanitarium and the surrounding property was sold. The Dominican novitiate is located there now.

DR. HARRY Hund, who now has his offices in the Albert Building, San Rafael, was on the medical staff of the Cottage Hospital, now San Rafael General. He was one of the first members of the Marin County Medical Society and served as both secretary and president. He served as San Rafael city's health officer for 20 years and is a member of the staffs of San Rafael General Hospital, Marin General Hospital and Southern Pacific Hospital.

He is a member of the California Medical Assn., American Medical Assn., Western Assn. of Railway Surgeons (president in 1937), American Assn. of Railway Surgeons, and has been district physician and surgeon for the Southern Pacific and Northwestern Pacific railways since 1923. He was a president of both the Southern Pacific and Northwestern Pacific Railways Medical Assns.

Dr. Hund has also been active in fraternal and service organizations. He is a charter member and was the first president of the San Rafael Lions Club (1922), and a member of San Rafael Elks Lodge 1108, serving as exalted ruler in 1942. He is a member of Marin Lodge 191, F.&A.M., Islam Temple of the Shrine, and the Shrine Club of Marin County, of which he is also a past president.

In those organizations he has been a hard and active worker. But it is in his role as healer of the silk that Dr. Harry has most indelibly stamped himself as a servant of his fellow men.

THE MARIN YOUTH orchestra rehearses under the baton of its conductor, Hugh Renaldi, in preparation for its presentation Dec. 12 and 13 of the "Nutcracker Ballet." Appearing with the orchestra in that special holiday season event will be the dance students of the Leona Norman School of Ballet, some of whom can be seen in rehearsal on Pages M-14 and M-15. (Photo by Ken Reichard)

Symphony Starts Early Here

Talented Teen-Agers Given Opportunity To Master And Perform Great Music

It was a decade ago that several Marin musicians and some of their friends began planning for a full-scale symphony orchestra for their county.

Since that time the Symphony Guild of Marin has grown into an integral part of the area's cultural life.

It presents for Bay Area music lovers three concerts per year, first under the baton of Gastone Usiglix, and, since his death, under the direction of Sandor Salgo.

And with the success of the guild a new idea was born: If the adults of the county could perform so successfully and attract such interest, why not form a similar organization for the high school age musicians of Marin.

That idea took hold and the result was in January, 1955, the formation of the Marin Youth Orchestra under Symphony Guild of Marin sponsorship.

IN THAT SAME year the newly-formed orchestra made its first concert appearance, conducted by Hugo Rinaldi.

The Marin Youth Orchestra provides the outstanding instrumentalist from Marin's schools, all of whom boast strong music programs, with the added opportunity to learn and perform both standard and lesser known symphonic works. Each year at least two concerts are presented for Marin audiences. And for these concerts instrumental and vocal soloists are selected by audition.

Talented Marin teen-agers aiming at professional music careers have found the experience from both the orchestral and solo work to be invaluable training for their future.

And those who do not plan upon future careers in music are still afforded the satisfaction of playing fine music and associating with other youths with the same interests.

ASPIRING composers have their opportunities also. Two young members of the orchestra have written and orchestrated works which have been played by the orchestra, and young musicians with a talent for conducting have served as student or assistant conductors of the orchestra.

To encourage the development of the always-needed string players, the backbone of any symphony orchestra, conductor Rinaldi also holds a workshop for strings each week. This project covers largely the elementary school age level who fall into an intermediate category, and encourages the serious study of string instruments by qualified students, who have as their goal future membership in the Marin Youth Orchestra.

From a single concert each year, the Marin Youth Orchestra has enlarged its program annually and this year will make three appearances in Marin.

The annual Spring Concert has always been the main event, and has lately been coupled with a concert for young people, aimed at the junior high school level, first presented in Novato, and this year to be held at Redwood High School. Last year, as the word got around as to the ability of this young orchestra, the group was invited to perform at Stanford University. Our young people were highly commended for an excellent performance in Dinkelspiel Auditorium.

THIS YEAR something new has again been added. The Marin Youth Orchestra, with the Leona Norman School of Ballet and leading dancers from the Bay Area Ballet, will present two performances of Tschaikovsky's "Nutcracker Ballet," to be held in the auditorium of San Rafael High School on Dec. 12 and 13 at 2:30 p.m.

The coordinating of dancers and musicians makes this performance the most ambitious undertaking to date. Extra rehearsals directed by Rinaldi and Mrs. Norman have been called during these past weeks to ensure a pleasurable holiday event for Marinites. (See pages M-10 and M-11.)

Tickets for the Nutcracker are on sale in leading music stores throughout the county.

The Marin Youth orchestra will make two other appearances next spring—a concert at Redwood High School on March 19, and the traditional Spring Concert at Marin Catholic High School on April 24.

Should I buy a complete Stereo system of the low price variety or should I use the same money to buy less equipment but better quality? This question has probably crossed your mind many times. Our advice: BUY QUALITY COMPONENTS A FEW AT A TIME and you and your family will enjoy superb high quality sound for all the years to come.

What should I buy? I can't buy one component and set it on a shelf until we are ready for another purchase. You should begin with a starter set that you can enjoy immediately and add on to it as you go along.

Here is a Christmas suggestion. Purchase a stereo amplifier like a Bogen DB212, a Garrard 210 record changer with a Shure stereo cartridge, and an Electro Voice Esquire 200 three speaker system in cabinet. This starter component group will cost $331.15 ready to play. It consists of a high quality component record player system. By the addition of one more Esquire speaker system later, you have stereo. Your next step can be the FM-AM radio tuner.

THIS SENSITIVE picture of two young ballet dancers is the work of one of Ken Molino's College of Marin students. But it would do credit to a professional. Closest to the camera is Sally Hobson. The other girl is Annette Bachich.

When Photo And Ballet Pupils Meet

When Ken Molino, commercial photographer and instructor, decided to take his College of Marin evening class in photography on a field trip, he chose the advanced ballet class taught by Leona Norman as the subject.

The reason:

Dancers, Molino says, offer the photographer picture opportunities that are particularly challenging to his imagination as well as to his technical skill.

The proof of that contention is evident in the pictures shown here—the work of the student photographers on that field trip.

Nearly a score of photography students made the trip. For three hours they took pictures, most of them from existing light with fast film, although there was some limited use of floodlight illumination.

Four of Miss Norman's students served as subjects. They were Annette Bachich, Linda Lepley, Sally Hobson and Kathleen Weiss.

The advanced students, all of whom dance with the popular Bay Area Ballet, are currently rehearsing for their appearance with the Marin Youth Orchestra as guest artists in the Dec. 12 and 13 presentation of "The Nutcracker Ballet." (See page M-13)

TV Series Loser Takes It In Stride

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Veteran actor Ray Collins, teased, twitted and somewhat tormented because of his role of Police Lt. Arthur Tragg in the Perry Mason TV series, takes it all in his stride.

"People yell at me from time to time," the white-haired performer said. "They say something like, 'Hey, Tragg—when are you going to win a case?' "

Collins feels he has lost his identity because of his numerous appearances in the popular CBS-TV series. He's known as Tragg to millions of viewers.

FREQUENTLY a motorcycle officer will come up on the right hand side of my car when I've stopped for a light," he said. "I'll be driving, and my wife, Joan, is sitting on the right side. He'll look over and see me. Then he'll say to my wife, 'Tragg?' And she always says 'Yes.' And then off he goes with the change of light."

People who see Tragg-Collins in the flesh always want to ask him why he and the district attorney always lose their cases to shrewd Perry Mason, played by Raymond Burr. Collins used to try to explain that if Mason lost a case he would no longer be a hero and might even look foolish.

"I've all but stopped going through the explanation," he said. "This series takes a lot of time, and I have so little free time that I just can't spend it explaining. I don't resent the questions at all—we welcome interest in the series. But I have to devote some time to my wife. Now I usually just say that's the way the script is written."

COLLINS WAS stage-struck at the age of 15 in California, where his father, William Collins, was drama editor of the Sacramento Bee for 26 years. He joined a theatrical company in Oakland and is now in his 54th year of show business.

He arrived on Broadway in the early 1920s and has performed in some 800 stage plays in his lifetime, often as a leading man. He turned to radio in the 1930s and often was associated with Orson Welles' productions. Collins came to Hollywood in 1941 and has appeared in many major movies.

The hard pace of the Mason series doesn't make too much impression on Collins despite his age. In an industry where idleness "between engagements" is well known, Collins is used to work.

"Why, in my first 17 years as an actor, I was out of work for five weeks," Collins said. "I guess We must have been busy."
